Council Cuts Merchants' Tax Assessment Rate

NEW RATE FIXED AT 35 PER CENT ON GROSS VALUES

Merchants and Manufacturers Will Be Aided by Council Action on Stocks and Equipment.

MAYOR EXPECTED TO SIGN MEASURE

Councilman Inman Declares Business Will Profit and City Will Obtain Larger Revenue.

Reduction in the tax assessment rate as applied to business equipment and stock of merchants and manufacturers, was voted by city council Monday, and beginning with 1926 returns, the rate will be 35 per cent of gross values, instead of the present rate of 52 1/2 per cent.

Alderman J. Allen Couch, only opponent of the step, claimed that such action would mean a heavier burden on real estate owners, and would be unfair to every owner of property in Atlanta. As a member of the paper last week, he signed an adverse report, but his motion to adopt his report died when it failed to receive a second.

"Will Boost Business," Councilman Ed H. Inman, author of the measure stated that the change would stimulate instead of hurt business, and that at the same time, it would net the city a larger revenue from general taxes.

"Although the present rate is 52 1/2 per cent," he said, "there is so much evasion that only about 20 per cent is actually assessed. The proposed method would eliminate all possibility of tax evasion, as all merchants have agreed to furnish the tax assessors with an auditor's statement, and assessments will be made from those statements."

"At the same time, it will place all merchants on an equal footing, and the merchant who in the past has made a full return under the new act, will not be forced to pay a higher rate than those who fail to make proper returns."

"It also will increase the amount of revenues from those sources about 75 per cent, as we will be basing our assessment on 35 instead of 20 per cent of gross values."

Point Is Overruled. Alderman Couch again attempted to block passage of the bill by raising a point of order, but his point was overruled by the chairman.

The measure was passed with but one dissenting vote. It is expected that the mayor will sign the paper.

4,000 ARE KILLED IN BULGAR REVOLT

Anarchist Who Bombed Cathedral, Killing 160 People, Dies Fighting Sofia Police.

Sofia, April 20.—Four thousand persons have been killed and 10,000 arrested in Bulgaria since a terrorist's bomb wrecked the Sveti Kral cathedral, according to a dispatch from Belgrade to the Central News.

One hundred persons were killed at Vratza, 40 miles north of Sofia, when they clashed with government troops, according to the Central News dispatch.

The Central News correspondent in Belgrade obtained his information from the Bulgarian frontier, where refugees have been tumbling into Jugo-Slavia for several days.

Anarchist Is Killed. Sofia, April 20.—Minkoff, the anarchist who is alleged to have placed the bomb that killed 160 persons in Sveti Kral cathedral, died fighting the police Monday.

Minkoff resisted arrest when the police approached him, and was shot dead.

It is now estimated that the explosion was accomplished with twelve pounds of dynamite, which was hidden near the cathedral tower and set off by a light time fuse.

No Questions Asked. Vienna, April 20.—Reports from Sofia indicate that soldiers, police and special deputies throughout the country, as they began their round-up of revolutionary suspects, adopted the slogan: "Shoot first and ask questions afterward."

Drinks Poison Dose as Song Comes To End

Emmett L. Moore, World War Veteran, Dies at Grady Hospital.

Apparently happy in the love of his family, Emmett L. Moore, 31-year-old world war veteran, romped on the floor of his apartment at 138 East Pine street, playing at "circus" with an abandon that rivaled that of his blue-eyed little daughter of six.

Monday night he stood by the organ on which his young wife plays soft airs of by-gone days, and sang with her—"Lead Kindly Light."

Fifteen minutes later he lay dead at Grady hospital, victim of a draught of poison he swallowed before the lingering notes of the old hymn had faded into silence—a silence that was broken by agonized screams of the wife and child as they saw Moore sink in the death throes on a bed in the home.

Moore, a tile setter, had been in ill health for several weeks, and suffered spells of nervousness, it was said.

Mrs. Moore said her husband was not feeling well and that she thought he was taking a drink of whiskey.

"I asked him what was in the cup

WHEELER OFFERED TO SPLIT OIL FEE, LAWYER TESTIFIES

"Surprise" Witness Tells of Senator's Proposal to Him To Appear Before Interior Department.

Federal Court Room, Great Falls, Mont., April 20.—The prosecution placed its "surprise" witness on the stand late Monday afternoon in the trial of Senator Burton K. Wheeler for alleged misuse of office.

George B. Hayes, an attorney of New York and Washington, testified that Wheeler sought him out and proposed to split profits from an oil deal with him if he would appear before the interior department in Washington.

Hayes described meeting with Wheeler in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York in March, 1923, when, he said, Wheeler attempted to interest him in the affair.

Wanted Him to Handle Permits. "He asked me to handle permits of Gordon Campbell, then pending before the interior department," Hayes testified.

"Arrangements for our conference were made by Edwin S. Booth, solicitor of the interior department," Hayes added.

"I don't remember what Wheeler was to get out of the deal, but I was to get half," he continued. "I met Wheeler at a desk in the Waldorf lobby late afternoon between 4 and 7 o'clock. Wheeler told me what he wanted and I told him I didn't know anything about permits. He said that was all right and that Booth would help me."

Wheeler said he was going to Europe and asked me to take up one matter with Booth of unusual importance. He mentioned something about a Lincoln oil well."

Talked With Booth. Hayes said he later talked with Booth, who showed him several maps of Campbell's holdings in Montana. "I was to be more or less a figurehead," the witness added.

Judge Frank S. Deitrich upheld the motion of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, chief counsel for Wheeler, and said that remark struck from the record.

Walsh told me I would have very little to do," Hayes continued. "He said he would keep me advised as to the status."

On cross examination, Walsh brought out that elaborate precautions were taken to keep secret Hayes' identity. No subpoena was issued for him so that his name would not be known. He only arrived in town Monday morning. He said he had promised Assistant United States District Attorney Donovan, an official of the attorney general's staff in Washington, that he would give the evidence voluntarily.

Walsh also brought out that Hayes was a witness before Wheeler's committee which investigated the department of justice. He said Wheeler examined him at that time for alleged "irregularities in connection with the Hart prohibition case."

Wheeler told me he would go 50-50 on the fee," he said. "I haven't any definite recollection of what the amount was to be. It was a very substantial figure. I think it was millions."

COOLIDGE LAUDS IMMIGRATION ACT IN TALK TO D. A. R.

Alien Policy Defended as Necessary To Halt Influx of Refugees From War-Torn Europe.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, April 20.—Restrictive immigration was defended by President Calvin Coolidge in an address to the Daughters of the American Revolution Monday night. This policy, the president said, still is experimental, but has every appearance of being permanent.

The break from the old attitude of open arms to immigrants from the old world was a "revolutionary" change of policy, Mr. Coolidge said, necessary "to bring about the spiritual unification" of the United States.

The president congratulated the D. A. R. on its immigration aid service at Ellis island where the newcomers are assisted in finding occupation, learning the language, and adapting themselves to American institutions.

"There is a deeper significance to this kind of effort than at first thought may be apparent," the president said.

New Policy. "In the last few years we have entered on a new policy toward immigration. It is still rather experimental, but with every appearance of acceptance. Restriction of immigration is nothing less than a revolutionary change from the older days when we boasted that this country offered refuge and opportunity, liberty and security, to all who desired them."

"The policy of restriction seemed necessary, in view of the certainty

NEW YORK STREET TURNED INTO RODEO AS CALVES ESCAPE

New York, April 20.—Columbus Circle, New York's most congested traffic spot, was the scene of an unusual rodeo today when five calves headed for a slaughter house, escaped from a motor truck and went on at a gallop.

Stenographers screamed, trolley bells clanged and automobile horns shrieked as traffic cops and volunteer cowboys, dodging in and out of lines of taxi-cabs and motor cars rounded up the calves by football tactics.

Dapper Bandit Pair Loots Third Station in 3 Nights

NO TRACE FOUND OF SHIEKS' WOMAN AIDE

Inactive since Saturday night, when they nonchalantly held employees of two filling stations at pistol point and rifled the cash till, after locking the employees in wash rooms, Atlanta's new and dapper bandit pair suddenly descended upon the Pan-American station at Cherokee avenue and East Fair street, while opera was at its height Monday night, again imprisoned the manager and negro worker in a rear room, and escaped with $20.

Warned by accounts in Sunday's papers of the operations of the boy bandits, the manager, P. D. Fulton, of 140 Oakdale road, and his negro aide, were able to furnish police with a complete description of the highwaymen.

They were described as dapper young men whose bell-bottomed trousers, nobby caps and up-to-the-moment haberdashery normally would have marked them as college freshmen, sons of well-to-do and thoroughly respectable homes.

Detectives William Dawson and L. H. Satterfield who investigated the holdups, Monday night stated that they were satisfied that all three of the robberies were committed by the same men. Descriptions furnished the police in each instance were that one man was about six feet tall, wore a brown suit and a gray cap, the second one being about five feet ten inches tall, wearing a blue suit and a brown cap.

No trace of the bandits could be found by the police other than that they were using a small, but speedy car in their operations.

No trace was found Monday night of the woman in black who sat at the wheel of a parked car Saturday night and whisked the two bandits to safety after they had robbed a filling station on the north side.

MEMPHIS PHYSICIAN HOLY CHIEFTAINS, DRAFTED BY LEAGUE VEILS OVER FACES, TO BATTLE MALARIA RECEIVED BY WALES

Memphis, Tenn., April 20.—Dr. L. D. Fricks, Memphis malaria expert of the United States public health service, has been drafted by the health service section of the League of Nations to study the malaria problems of Jugo-Slavia and will sail May 12 from New York, on the steamship President Wilson.

Dr. Fricks has been in the public health service for more than 25 years. He has been instrumental in driving malaria from many sections of the south.

The appointment of Dr. Fricks was made at the request of Dr. Raghman, secretary of the League of Nations health section. He will be in Jugo-Slavia for four months.

SUIT IS DISMISSED TO PREVENT SALE OF 5 U. S. VESSELS

Pacific Mail Company Loses First Tilt To Prevent Purchase of Ships by Dollar Steamship Co.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

Washington, April 20.—The path of the shipping board in selling five of its premier vessels to the Dollar Steamship company has been cleared of its first obstruction by dismissal of the injunction suit brought by the rival Pacific Mail company.

The sale, ordered by a 4 to 3 vote of the board, has stirred up an internal row and brought protests from outside which have drawn President Coolidge into the controversy.

The suit was dismissed Monday by Justice Hitz, of the district supreme court, with a brief statement, after he had listened for several hours to arguments from counsel for both sides.

Ex-Senator George Chamberlain of Oregon, counsel for the Pacific Mail, gave notice of an appeal to the district court of appeals, whereupon Justice Hitz continued the temporary injunction against the sale until Wednesday, when it will be dismissed formally and the appeal taken.

Scored Early Victory. The shipping board won a victory at the outset of the hearing when Justice Hitz decided to proceed with the motion of its attorneys to dismiss the suit, thereupon holding the case merely to the point of law involved.

Counsel for the Pacific Mail sought to have the court consider its petition for a permanent injunction and the dismissal motion at the same time, arguing the case "on its merits."

While dismissal of the suit does not free the hands of the shipping board, this first victory led to predictions that the sale would be upheld finally. Meanwhile, the transaction must await final action by the courts.

Fixes Definite Policy. If the sale goes through, it amounts, virtually, to setting a definite policy for the board as to disposal of its merchant fleet. These vessels are five of the best the government owns. They are now operated by the Pacific Mail.

The board has been at tempting to sell its vessels for a long time, but has been slow.

This time, however, the board was too slow to open a wedge. The sale of the vessels was too important to be left to chance. The board was too slow to open a wedge. The sale of the vessels was too important to be left to chance.

Atlanta's fifteenth season of Metropolitan opera opened at the auditorium Monday night with Ponchielli's magnificent work, "La Gioconda," and with a production and audience, unsurpassed for brilliance on any previous opening night.

Though Rosa Ponselle, Atlanta's favorite soprano, who was billed to sing the title role, was unable to appear on account of a sudden attack of tonsillitis, Frances Peralta took her place in the cast and offered to southern opera critics an individual performance that always will rank high in memory with the great sopranos of the past.

Lauri-Volpi Scores.

Giacomo Lauri-Volpi, the new Italian tenor, making his first appearance in Atlanta, disclosed a voice of power and brilliance that brought repeated applause.

Jeanne Gordon, the contralto, with her voluptuous tones and glorious presence, enraptured the great audience time and time again. Joe McDonnes, the basso, added to his already great laurels and Giuseppe Danise, the old and tried baritone, carried a heavy role with the perfection of the finished artist.

The audience practically filled the great auditorium and it is certain that never has Atlanta witnessed a more representative and brilliant gathering on an opera occasion.

From the moment when the new red and gold curtain which has been provided this year parted on the opening scene, until it rolled down on that last crashing chord of the great orchestra, every soul in the huge crowd sat enraptured and thrilled through a performance that touched the apogee of perfect balance and artistic production.

Outside of the performance of individual stars, several of which will

Hundreds Welcome "Seattle" Arrives As Crimpes of Sea Battle

Thrilled as Ship Names Port With High Military Officers; Oahu Attack Begins Saturday

Honolulu, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The U. S. S. "Seattle," carrying the highest ranking officers of the United States army and navy, arrived here this morning.

The ship will act as umpire ship during the coming joint army-navy maneuvers, in which the United States fleet, called the "Blue" force, will endeavor to capture the Hawaiian Islands from the "Black" force, considered an enemy for the purposes of the maneuvers.

The "Seattle," which is normally flagship of the grand fleet, received a picturesque welcome as she steamed into Honolulu harbor. Naval vessels from the Pearl Harbor base, together with the lightship "Kukui," carrying an official welcoming party, steamed out of the harbor and circled the warship. Some score of Japanese fishing sampans also appeared and surrounded the ship, carrying huge American flags and banners emblazoned "welcome."

All of the morning was taken up with official calls upon the high army and navy officers by Oahu Island territorial and civil officials.

Meanwhile, somewhere at sea between here and San Francisco, the "Blue" fleet is steaming toward the territory, cloaked under "radio silence" and "darkened ship" orders.

The actual engagement between the "Blue" and "Black" forces is expected to begin about April 25.

"LEATHERNECKS" HOLD BATTLE PRACTICE

San Francisco, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—"Soldiers of the Sea," the United States marine detachments aboard the American fleet, which is advancing toward its objective, the island of Oahu—are getting into final trim for their part in the forthcoming attempt of the "Blue" fleet to recapture the islands from the "Black" forces, the theatrical "enemy." The battle will be fought in a few days.

Daily battle exercises, are held on deck by the regular complements of marines. Likewise the 1,500 sea soldiers aboard the transport Henderson, representing a skeleton organization for a constructive force of 20,000 men, are training daily, as it is realized that the marines, reinforced perhaps by landing parties of sailors, probably must deliver the "punch" if the territory is to be captured by the "Blue" forces.

Marines aboard the men-of-war are the guardians against attacks for they man the anti-aircraft guns as well as the other lighter batteries, in time of naval engagements. While cruising when not at battle practice or "general quarters" they form the police guard of the ship.

Preparations for a severe test in the hazardous task of landing the invading forces of marines, proceeded aboard the fleet day and night. In attacking Oahu, the sea-soldiers will encounter a problem that will prove realistic indeed, marine officers say. The beaches of the island are of coral sand, treacherous and soft, and behind each ship, Marines and sailors vie for the honor of reaching battle stations first, to report to commanding officers that their batteries are ready for the signal "commence firing."

The slim fingers of the anti-aircraft batteries shift quickly in various directions as commands from the fire control officer sound through a telephone or voice tubes.

Flames Destroy Yacht.

Quebec, April 20.—Fire destroyed the steam yacht "Thomas B. River," this morning in the St. Lawrence river, 12 miles above Quebec. Two men who were on the yacht escaped without injury. The loss was estimated at $250,000. The remains of the craft sank. W. J. Norton of this city, owned the yacht.

Poisoner of Seven SLATED FOR ASYLUM

St. Paul, Neb., April 20.—Mrs. Della Sorensen, 28, who yesterday admitted killing with poison seven persons, including two of her own children and her husband, probably will be placed in an asylum for insane, it was announced today by County Attorney Dobry. Mr. Dobry said an investigation had shown that Mrs. Sorensen was mentally unbalanced. If she should be released "within two or three years," the attorney said, "the murder charges against her could be revived."

Investigation into the series of deaths extending over seven years, was started three weeks ago, following the serious illness of two small children to whom Mrs. Sorensen is alleged to have given some poisoned cookies.

In her confession Mrs. Sorensen said she had killed two of her children, a baby, Deloris, and her 3-year-old daughter, Minnie; the former because her "crying and fretting" irritated the mother and the latter because she was ill with St. Vitus dance, and she could do nothing for her husband, Joseph, who died. The woman said she poisoned after a quarrel.

Mrs. E. Wilhelmina Weldon, Mrs. Sorensen's mother-in-law, died of poison administered by the accused woman, according to her confession, in the summer of 1920. "She was feeble and ill, and I buried her in my hands. I wanted to get her out of the way," the confession continued.

Two children of Mrs. Weldon, Cooper, Mrs. Sorensen's sister-in-law, died of poison because Mrs. Cooper had confessed. "Every time I gave poison to one of my children, I felt sorry for the poor child because its mother did not care for it," Mrs. Sorensen said.

Mrs. Sorensen said that she had made her confession voluntarily "because I want to tell the truth and because I am sorry for what I have done."

County Attorney Dobry stated today that Mrs. Sorensen will be taken to the state insane asylum at Hastings today in accordance with a ruling by the Howard district court. No formal charges will be filed and no prosecution will be carried out against the woman, authorities announced.

Meanwhile Sheriff Scholt was planning to make an exhaustive investigation into the purchase of poison by the woman.

WILMER MADE PARTNER IN DILLON, READ FIRM

New York, April 20.—Edward G. Wilmer, chairman of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, today was admitted to partnership in the New York banking firm of Dillon, Read & Co., which recently electrified Wall street by outbidding J. P. Morgan & Co. for the Dodge Brothers Automobile company. Mr. Wilmer was admitted with playing a prominent part in the negotiations which resulted in the sale of the company to Dillon, Read & Co. for about $150,000 in cash.

Mr. Wilmer, who is only 35 years old, will represent the banking firm in various industrial enterprises in which it is interested. His rise in the financial and industrial world parallels that of Clarence Dillon, head of the banking house, with whom he first became associated when he was employed by the Milwaukee Coke and Gas company.

After several years' executive experience with the Steel and Tube company of America, Mr. Wilmer undertook the reorganization of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company in 1922, leading it out of its troubles when it was on the brink of receivership. In addition to his other activities, Mr. Wilmer is chairman of the United States and Foreign Securities corporation—the $30,000,000 investment trust organized by Dillon, Read & Co. last fall.

WOMAN GETS LIFE PRISON SENTENCE IN DOUBLE SLAYING

Little Rock, April 20.—Winona Green, 24, confessed slayer of her husband's father and mother, today accepted a sentence of life imprisonment imposed in Pulaski county circuit court and her appeal to the Arkansas supreme court from her conviction on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of her father-in-law here, was dismissed.

Mrs. Green fled to Colorado after the shooting of her husband's father, but was captured at Pueblo and returned here. While awaiting trial she confessed and also admitted the slaying of her mother-in-law in Oklahoma.

She pleaded insanity but was found sane and convicted of murder. She escaped from there but was recaptured in Memphis.

Clark Collection Of Art Declined By Metropolitan

New York, April 20.—The board of trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art this afternoon, by unanimous vote, declined to accept the bequest of an art collection valued at approximately $3,000,000, left by the late William A. Clark, of Montana.

The trustees in their resolution stated they were "constrained to decline acceptance of the property" under the terms of Mr. Clark's will. They said, however, that they would gladly accept the bequest of the objects if the conditions of their acceptance could be changed.

Mr. Clark's will provided that if the art collection was not accepted by the Metropolitan museum it should go to the Corcoran gallery, in Washington.

The trustees explained that their reason for declining the gift was that it would have required facilities which the museum lacks. The former United States senator, in his will, stipulated that the collection must be accepted as a unit and suitably housed together.

2 HELD IN RUM PROBE AFTER JONES ARRESTS

Washington, April 20.—Two more arrests, bringing the total to four, were made today in the investigation of alleged diversion of alcohol for beverage purposes through the Maryland Drug and Chemical company of Baltimore.

M. H. Caro, proprietor of a local flavoring company, and Simon Keiler, a real estate operator, were taken into custody in connection with the case and released under bonds of $1,000 after preliminary hearings before United States Commissioner Turnage.

The arrests came after a further inquiry, continued from Saturday morning, into the activities of a newspaper correspondent, was arrested here, and his brother, N. T. Jones, former assistant prohibition director of Georgia, was taken into custody at Atlanta.

The investigation is continuing and warrants are out for several other persons who have been implicated. Agents said the evidence gathered since the arrest of the Jones brothers, the case was described by officials of the bureau as being "decidedly interesting" in that the inquiry has constantly developed new leads which special agents under Chief Irey are now running down. Officials declared today they could make no further developments in advance of the trial, but it was indicated that further arrests that may be made in cities other than Washington and Baltimore were expected.

In some quarters, indications were given that the investigators were working on the theory that an alleged conspiracy of greater proportions than already charged was about to be disclosed. Internal revenue officials were silent on those reports, however, saying only that they did not know how far their work could carry them.

WOMAN WHO SLEW HER 2 CHILDREN ADJUDGED INSANE

Ashland, Ky., April 20.—Mrs. Emma Sloan, who killed her two children with a hatchet yesterday, at the state hospital here, was adjudged insane. The jury in the case today found that she was temporarily insane, Coroner Richardson declared today. After talking to the woman in a hospital where she is recovering from self-inflicted wounds, the coroner decided upon the verdict without calling a jury.

Mrs. Sloan repeated her story of killing her son John as he slept because she was "driven to it" by a defective. A few moments later she used the same hatchet on her daughter, Margaret, because, the coroner said, she had been told that Sloan did not wish to have her daughter grow up facing a disgrace in the family.

Several attempts to slay herself with the hatchet, Mrs. Sloan turned on all the gas jets and lay down in the room to die. Her husband found her there, bleeding from a hatchet wound in the head.

TROY METHODISTS BAR KLAN CONDEMNATION

North Adams, Mass., April 20.—A condemnation of the Ku Klux Klan was eliminated from the report of the committee on the state of the nation at the close of the Troy conference of Methodist Episcopal church today by a vote of 90 to 55.

The report was taken after a lively debate. The report as submitted by the committee condemned all class movements, but the majority of the delegates, who were primarily material and use force, mentioning specifically the Ku Klux Klan and the third international.

Several delegates jumped to their feet to move that the Klan be barred from the conference, but they were not klanmen themselves, but that other organizations were worse.

The motion to strike out the condemnation was made by Dr. H. H. Murdock, of Schenectady, N. Y.

NORTH INDIANA VOTE GOES FOR UNIFICATION

Anderson, Ind., April 20.—Ministers of the North Indiana Methodist Episcopal conference today voted unanimously in favor of the union of the north and south branches of the Methodist church. He was president of the Royal College of Surgeons from 1912 to 1914, and participated in the organization of the American College of Surgeons. Dr. Franklin H. # DR. BRICKER RESIGNS CHURCH PASTORATE

Dr. L. O. Bricker has resigned as pastor of the First Christian church after 14 years of service, it was announced Monday. A meeting of the board of officers of the church will be held tonight to consider his resignation, which has not yet been accepted.

Dr. Bricker has made no mention of his plans for the future.

PLANES MAY BE USED IN COTTON CROP PROBE

Washington, April 20.—The department of agriculture is considering acquisition of a fleet of airplanes for use in its field work if experiments now being conducted prove successful. The airplane already has been found useful in obtaining information on cotton crop conditions, and crop reporters say it permits them to cover more territory and get better information than the prosaic horse does.

L. J. James, crop statistician of Louisiana, has found on several trips over his territory, that from heights of 500 and 1,000 feet, he was able to get accurate knowledge of the crops, and negotiations are being conducted with the army air service to permit Frank Parker, statistician for North Carolina, to cover the fields of that state with an airplane. Charles E. Bolling, field inspector of crop reporters, also has been successful in obtaining aerial photographs of cotton fields with special instruments of the department.

The weather bureau is now engaged in conducting experiments on weather forecasting with instruments attached to airplanes to determine if more information cannot be obtained among the clouds than from land instruments. One such flight was made today at Bolling field in an army air service plane, and bureau officials are studying the results with the view of using airplanes regularly.

12 SLAIN, 73 INJURED IN PORTUGAL REVOLT

Lisbon, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Twelve were killed and 73 wounded during the short-lived military revolt here Saturday. An effort will be made to retain the names of some of the principal highways, such as the Lincoln highway, but the board expressed approval of abandoning certain names of roads, which are only links of some national highway.

Geneva, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Soviet Russia has refused to participate in the forthcoming conference on control of the traffic in arms.

The refusal was contained in a stiffly-worded telegram from Foreign Minister Tchitcherin, pointing out that the soviet government had repeatedly proclaimed its negative attitude toward the league of nations as presently organized.

Those made homeless by the blaze are being cared for by neighbors and various organizations of the city. Although the five injured firemen required hospital treatment, none was reported seriously injured. Several other fire fighters were overcome by the heat and smoke, but quickly revived.

Burning trash in the rear of the Robinson Furniture company was given as cause of the fire.

NINKOFF KILLED BY SOFIA POLICE

Sofia, Bulgaria, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Ninkoff, said by the Bulgarian police to have placed the infernal machine which killed more than 100 persons in the Sveti Kral cathedral Thursday, was cornered by the police today and when he resisted was shot and killed. Ninkoff, a former officer in the engineer corps, was a subject of the Sofia communist executive central committee.

The leaders of the various parties, summoned by General Voulkov, have given the war minister assurances of their support in his endeavors to maintain order in the face of the terrorist campaign ascribed to the communists.

Among the latest arrests was that of a man wearing an army officer's uniform and carrying a document giving the composition of a revolutionary cabinet which was to have been set up, the authorities say, if the plotters hoped, all the government ministers were killed in the bombing of the Sveti Kral cathedral last week.

Investigation of the ruins of the cathedral indicates that an infernal machine was placed on the roof several days before the outbreak, and that it must have weighed from 40 to 50 pounds. The explosion sent a column of smoke 450 feet into the air.

The bodies of a young girl and her fiancé, supposed to have been murdered by communists because they had learned some of their secrets, were found yesterday in the village of Bojana, near Sofia.

"I can't just bear to have a man touch me," declared the prudish girl. "Neither can I," emphatically replied the stung man.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

35,000 Perish From Famine In Russ State

London, April 20.—Nearly 35,000 persons, most of them children, have starved to death in the Zarsin province of Soviet Russia, according to dispatches from Riga to the Daily News.

These figures place the number of child victims at 24,296 and the adults who have succumbed at 9,075. Reports from Riga on conditions within the neighboring Soviet Union usually are accepted with reserve, as anti-Soviet propaganda frequently is distributed from cities adjacent to the Russian border.

In Odessa province, the Riga dispatch relates, some 120,000 children are suffering from hunger, of whom only 6,500 are being cared for in any way. Similar conditions are said to exist elsewhere, notably in Kharkoff province, where 91,000 children are receiving state support, while uncounted thousands of others cannot be aided because of lack of facilities.

CHICAGO MEN ADDRESS RETAIL FOOD DEALERS

Approximately 500 people gathered in the basement of the Chamber of Commerce building Monday night, to hear addresses by W. Myers, director of the Trades Relations board of Armour & Co., of Chicago, and John A. Kotz, one of Chicago's leaders in the retail meat business and executive secretary of the National Retail Meat Dealers' association.

Those who gathered at the chambers building were members of the local Retail Food Dealers' association. Francis Kemper, Atlanta store operator, presided.

Mr. Kotz discussed the reasons for the great change in the public demands and tastes for meats experienced by the retail dealer in the past few years.

Cheaper Cuts Preferred.

He illustrated the difference in the modes of living as it was ten years ago and as it is today. He said that ten years ago people lived in houses where they enjoyed plenty of room, but that the same sized families today are housed in a three or four-room flat or tenement, many of whom cook in a cooperative kitchen where they have certain hours in which to prepare their food.

His condition has lessened the demand for choice meats and has increased the demand for steaks, chops and loins which can be handled quickly. He explained that the public has not been educated as to the many ways the cheaper cuts of meats could be prepared and stated that the packing industry has undertaken to supply text books to the public schools so that the younger generation will know more of the value of the so-called cheaper cuts of meat and the proper ways in which to prepare them.

To Stamp Meats.

Mr. Myers dealt purely with the subject of trade relations. During the course of his address he expressed the opinion that the day is not far off when all meats will be properly stamped so that people will know exactly what they are buying. He stressed the great need of cleanliness in stores handling food stuffs because of the fact that the newspapers and the great magazines are educating the housewives to the value of cleanliness not only in the home but everything that they are buying. He advocated truth in advertising, better window displays, prompt service and instead of having clerks in their stores to employ only real salesmen.

They Take Leading Roles in Opera "Falstaff" Tonight

"LA GIOCONDA" STARS ARE GIVEN OVATION

always be remembered as high lights in local opera history, the great thing about "La Gioconda" as it was given Monday night was the orchestra. It is of the modern school of opera, where the orchestra, the stage, the singers and the ballet unite all their arts to make the perfect whole of the production.

At times the orchestra took over the story and, in massive chords and delicate orchestration, gripped the emotions just as did the singers in their arias. Always the orchestra was felt as an intrinsic part of the whole and never throughout the four acts was there a moment when the ensemble felt short of the complete visual and tonal picture.

A large part of the credit for this wonderful presentation must go to Tullio Serafin, the new conductor who guided the baton for the first time in the south. Serafin is undoubtedly a conductor to rank at least on a par with the great Toscanini. From the moment when the first soft tones of the strings crept over the suddenly hushed audience, as the overture began, to that tremendous final crash, it was self-evident that, leading the whole performance, was a master wielding a baton tipped with genius. Then there was the ballet. The greatest and most beautiful ballet in the entire repertoire, they had told us was the "Dance of the Hours." And they told us the truth. The delicate tracery of the weaving figures of the dance, the leaping figures of ecstasy and the glorious kaleidoscope of color in the costumes was like a dream of hours in Paradise. It was the quintessence of poetry in motion and color.

"Falstaff" Tonight.

Tonight the great company is to present Verdi's "Falstaff." This is one of those rarities in opera, a comedy, and it is reputed as one of the outstanding successes of the New York season. In the cast is Antonio Scotti, old-time Atlanta favorite; Lawrence Tibbett, the American baritone, who won sensational success in his part of "Ford," in New York; Raymond Tokaran, the tenor; Adriano Di Loro, the bass; Lucrezia Bori and Frances Alda, the famous sopranos; Marion Telva and Kathleen Howard, contraltos. Serafin is again to conduct.

Latest reports Monday night from the head of Rosa Ponselle were to the effect that she was much better and almost certainly would be able to sing in "La Juive" on Wednesday night. It is to be devoutly prayed that she may, for what would an Atlanta opera season be without Ponselle?

Peralta Pleases.

Peralta, however, rose nobly to the heights demanded of her and the power and range of her voice came as something of a revelation to Atlantans who, though they have heard her before, have never heard her better. In her famous aria in the last act, "Suicidio," she poured forth the golden notes of her voice in a silver cascade of delight that held every soul enthralled in rapture and won for her extended applause that almost stopped the performance.

Lauri-Volpi sings with the abandon and joy of youth. He gives of his utmost at all times and his performance was given with a thrill that leaped over the footlights and orchestra pit and entered into the spirit of every hearer. Great as he is today, however, he is going to be greater still when years give him the experience to add to his youthful verve. Joanne Gordon made a magnificent Laura. She is a statuesque beauty and adds to her really great contralto voice an acting ability that is impressive.

Marion Telva sang the role of "La Cieca," with the tenderness and sympathy it demands. High Lights of Opera. As these last lines are being rushed to a waiting press, high lights which stand out include that great number in the second scene of the third act when Danise, Telva, Peralta, Lauri-Volpi and Marjones, backed by the great Metropolitan chorus, poured forth melody that filled the old auditorium roof with a riot of thrilling sound. And, beneath it all, the throbbing of the orchestra.

Then the great aria by Lauri-Volpi in the second act. And Peralta's aria in the last. And the duet between Gordon and Lauri-Volpi in the second act. And the ballet. And, beyond all else, the orchestra working under the baton of Tullio Serafin.

The expedition, which will undertake exploration of several million square miles of territory believed to exist in the Arctic, will reach Etah, the party's principal base, 700 miles from the pole by August 1, under present plans. The naval planes will be used for exploring and mapping of the area about the pole.

Capable Caste Presents 'Gioconda,' First Opera

"La Gioconda" was an ideal selection for the first night. Its many haunting melodies, simple harmonic structure, and melodramatic plot with the ever-recurring tense moments make this opera a most enjoyable one for untrained music lovers as well as for musicians. The libretto of Poncell's most popular opera was written by Boito, composer of "Mephistopheles," and is taken from Hugo's "Angelo, the Tyrant of Syracuse." The opera has many exciting moments and its dramatic nature gives the audience all the thrills grand opera is expected to give. The scene is laid in Venice. The new settings, enhanced by the richness of the costumes, added much to the whole atmosphere. The "Orfano Canale," in the last act, gave a vivid background to the awfulness of this scene, and we could almost believe as the theme that always announces the entrance of Barnaba and the Rosary motif.

"La Gioconda" was last heard in Atlanta twelve years ago with an ideal cast including Caruso, Destinn, Homer and Gilly. Those who were fortunate enough to have heard this performance in 1915, were unanimous in their praise of the cast of 1927. Conductor Serafin gave a wonderful reading of the score. He brings out all that is beautiful in this work and minimizes commonplace parts. His work is thoroughly musicianly, and with the unusual orchestra of the Metropolitan, he was able to carry the audience with him through all the various scenes of horror as well as those of a more beautiful nature. Miss Rosa Ponselle, scheduled for the title role, was ill and unable to appear, but her part was admirably played by Frances Peralta, whose beautiful soprano voice seemed to be in unusually excellent condition for her unexpected opportunity to shine with the stars of the capable caste. At first Mme. Peralta appeared a trifle nervous, but as the opera progressed she gained confidence and sang with her usual ease and beauty of tone. Especially effective were her pianissimo effects, employed with admirable judgment, while at the same time the carrying quality of her voice was shown during the various climaxes, when she soared clearly above the full orchestra. In the aria, "Suicidio," in the last act, her voice appeared to special advantage. Lauri-Volpi, the Italian tenor, new to Atlanta, won added laurels in his interpretation of "Enzo." His voice as shown in the famous air, "Cielo e Mar," has a beauty of tone and he sings with ease and understanding. His appearance in this role was realistic and attractive, and he sang with great abandon and fervor. The audience showed its appreciation of his work in no uncertain way.

The sinister part of Barnaba, who acted superbly by Danise, whose soliloquy and duet with Lauri-Volpi in the first act were hailed with stormy applause. Mrs. Danise's smoothness of tone and polish of interpretation was splendidly in keeping with the nature of the character which he portrayed.

Joe Marjones as Alvise satisfied his hearers—as he always does—with his mellow voice and real musicianship. The outstanding feature of his work came in the third act, when his voice dominated the entire action.

Most Atlantans were delightfully surprised with the splendid voice and interpretation of Miss Gordon in the role of "Laura." We were not prepared by advance notices to expect such a treat from Miss Gordon, but she vied with other leading roles in making "Gioconda" the delightful entertainment it was last night. We only regret that she is not to sing again this season.

Miss Telva, as "La Cieca," made the most of this role, singing especially well the air, "Voce di donna." The other parts taken by Reichman, Palmieri, and d'Angelo, completed the well-balanced caste of this season's initial performance.

Travels "La Gioconda."

We are glad that the Metropolitan revived "La Gioconda" this year, for with the setting, the rich costumes, the splendid chorus, and the ballet, an unusual evening of entertainment was afforded all.

Superlatives only can describe the chorus of the Metropolitan Opera company. In the first act as a mob, in the second as sailors and in the third as guests of Alvise, the wonderful shading of tonal effect, tremendous climaxes achieved and the precision of attack and crescendo points in the evening's performance.

The ballet was excellent in the "Furina" of the first act, but its interpretation of the over popular "Dance of the Hours," in the third act, will long be remembered as an outstanding feature of the performance and as one of the most beautiful ballet numbers ever seen by an Atlanta audience. It was a perfect poem of rhythmic motion, and the audience greeted it with applause, the warmth of which was in keeping with its merits. The artists were forced to acknowledge one curtain call after another.

With the initial performance given up to the standard of the Metropolitan company, everyone is anticipating a week of unusual beauty and enjoyment in this, our annual gala week of music.

HUGH HODGSON.

Camp making, hiking, patrol methods, troop administration and general scoutmaster problems will be taken up.

GOOD ROADS PROGRESS LAUDED BY COOLIDGE

Washington, April 20.—President Coolidge advised the United States Good Roads association today that it would be impossible for him to accept an invitation to attend its forthcoming annual convention in Houston, Texas.

The president made known his decision in a letter to J. A. Rountree, director general of the association, in which he declared that "without doubt the numerous highway associations that have been formed in all parts of the country have exerted a most helpful influence in the direction of good road developments."

"As one looks back over the history of this development within the last 15 or 20 years," he continued, "it must be accounted one of the national marvels that we have gone so far toward giving this continent a complete system of rural highways. At the beginning of this century, it was everywhere recognized as a national misfortune, if not a national reproach, that so little progress had been made in this direction."

"I think it fair to say that the most enthusiastic advocates of highway improvement would hardly have dared at that time to prophesy that within so short a time the country could have accomplished so much in this realm."

Japan Wants Lasting Peace; War With U. S. Impossible, Ambassador Tells Churchmen

Secret Arms Pact With Russia Is Denied by Matsudaira; Treaty Is Explained to Delegates.

New York, April 20.—War between the United States and Japan not only is unlikely, but a physical impossibility, and the two nations are destined to live at peace for all times, according to Tatsu Matsudaira, the new ambassador from Tokyo.

There are no issues between the two Pacific powers which require settlement by arms. Japan is considering no acts of retaliation arising from the American immigration laws and, moreover, because of geographical position, war could not occur, in Matsudaira's view.

Making it clear that his mission here is to create a friendly spirit and better understanding between the two countries, the new ambassador detailed the attitude of the island empire toward international and Far Eastern questions in a frank speech at a banquet in his honor, given by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ Monday night.

Treaty Explained. Referring to the new Russo-Japanese treaty, the ambassador declared that it did not conflict with the principle of a frank speech in Russia, nor need it cause apprehension in America.

"The report is circulated in the press from time to time, that Russia and Japan have concluded a secret agreement of more or less military character," he told the churchmen. "I am happy to be able to assure you that Japan has no secret treaty or agreement with Russia or with any other country."

"Japan today is deeply permeated with the desire to live in peace with all the nations of the world. She is determined to be fair and above board in all her international dealings; and she is ready to adjust her own affairs in such a manner that they will be in keeping with the demands of the times and the progress of the world."

Japan has complied fully with the terms of the Washington arms conference, he said, having scrapped fifteen capital ships. She has assumed a policy of non-intervention concerning the internal affairs in China.

War Talk Surprising. "It has given me great surprise to find talk of war between our two countries being repeated from time to time in the United States," the ambassador concluded. "It is quite obvious that there are no issues between the United States and Japan waiting settlement by force of arms; and it can be said further that as far as can be seen in the future no situation will arise which will cause an adjustment by ordinary and friendly diplomacy. War between our two countries is a matter of physical impossibility."

"We are destined to live in peace for all time."

There was a dancing contest on "Are you one of the judges?" asked a member of the floor committee. "I am." "Well, I charge this couple with colluding."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

WILSON LIVED FOR ONE YEAR ON EGGS AND MILK

Even With That Light Diet Atlanta Man Suffered Such Misery From Stomach Trouble He Thought He'd Surely Die.

KARNAK QUICKLY RESTORES HEALTH

"I Would Recommend This Great Medicine to Anybody—It's the Only Stomach Remedy and Tonic in the World," He Says.

Think of it! Forced to live on nothing but milk and eggs for a whole year—and even at that, to suffer torture from indigestion.

Yet that is exactly what Frank P. Wilson, of 87 Oglethorpe Ave., Atlanta, went through with, before he took Karnak and ended his troubles. It is easy to understand now why this prominent Old Fellow and former well-known citizen of Griffin, Ga., declares that Karnak is the only medicine in the world.

Mr. Wilson is well known in the West End Baptist church in Atlanta and no one will question the truth of his statement. Listen to what he says about his experience with the amazing new medicine.

"Ever since I got out of the army about six years ago, I have suffered torture with stomach trouble and indigestion of the worst sort. Everything I ate would blow me up with gas so I had to loosen my belt. This gas would get up around my heart and make it flutter, so I thought at times it would surely jump out between my ribs. Finally I got to where I didn't eat anything but eggs and milk. For a whole year I lived on nothing else, but even a soft egg or just plain water would blow me up like a balloon. It was the most miserable feeling in the world and I surely thought I would die."

"I just couldn't eat anything without suffering misery afterwards. I couldn't sleep at night and felt worn out and tired in the morning all the time. I tried everything I could get my hands on to get some relief, but nothing helped me until I took Karnak."

"Well, sir, this wonderful new medicine took right hold of me and soon had all my troubles ended and me feeling like a two-year-old."

"I eat anything now and enjoy it more than I have in years. I haven't been bothered a single minute with indigestion since Karnak set me straight. It's positively amazing to me what this medicine will do. I never felt better in my life than I do right now. I sleep so good, I don't know when to get up and words just simply can't describe my joy at being able to eat anything I want and never have a bit of suffering from it."

"You've got to be in the fix I was to really appreciate what Karnak means to people. Besides putting me in perfect health, I found when I weighed yesterday, that I had already gained four pounds."

"I will recommend Karnak to anybody. I know, from my own experience, it is the best stomach remedy and general tonic in the world. I have tried everything else and I ought to know."

Karnak is sold in Atlanta exclusively by Jacobs Pharmacy; in Marietta by Hodges Drug Co.; in Decatur by Elkin Drug Co.; in East Point by Christian's Pharmacy; and by the leading druggist in every town.

$100,000 GRADY GIFT ACCEPTED

The offer of Jacob Elsas, prominent Atlantian, and president of the Fulton Bar and Cotton Mills, to donate $100,000 toward construction of a pay ward at Grady hospital, Monday was accepted officially by city council, and a vote of thanks and appreciation extended to Mr. Elsas.

The motion was introduced by Alderman R. A. Gordon, chairman of the hospitals and charities committee of council.

Mr. Elsas' offer is contingent on raising $300,000 from other sources for the new unit at Grady. Physicians at the institution already have undertaken to raise $100,000, leaving only $200,000 to be provided by the county, city, and other sources. Mr. Elsas' offer holds good only if the additional $300,000 is raised within three years.

COMMITTEE DELAYS NAMING ENGINEER FOR PAVING PROBE

A meeting of a sub-committee of the street committee, city council, called for Monday afternoon for the purpose of selecting an engineer to test paving laid during the past year to determine whether or not the streets were paved according to specifications, has been postponed indefinitely, according to announcement of Councilman Horace Russell, chairman.

Appointment of the committee was authorized by the street committee last week, following charges that Ponce de Leon avenue and other streets had not been paved in accordance with specifications.

ACTION ON BILL FOR $40 MAXIMUM PENSIONS DELAYED

Action again was delayed Monday on a measure which would ask the legislature to set $40 as the maximum monthly pension to be paid by the city when the pension was referred to the charter revision committee on motion of Councilman T. L. Shipper.

It came to council with favorable reports from both the charter revision and finance committees. Alderman Claude E. Buchanan sponsored the paper.

CITY APPROPRIATES $5,000 FOR GRADING OF CANDLER FIELD

City council Monday voted unanimously to appropriate $5,000 toward grading Candler field, recently acquired by the city for use as a municipal airplane landing field.

The council already has agreed to match any amount given by the state, and work probably will be started on grading the latter part of this week. Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, chairman of the landing field committee, told council that all contemplated improvements of the field are contingent on grading it, and that practically nothing can be done until grading is completed. Alderman W. B. Duvall, chairman of the finance committee, also spoke in favor of the appropriation.

NO GARBAGE CANS FOR CITY STREETS, DECLARES COUNCIL

DOG INOCULATION BILL IS TABLED BY CITY COUNCIL

After Alderman J. Allen Couch charged that "it is only a money-making machine for the humane society," city council Monday voted, 10 to 7, to table an ordinance which would require that every dog in Atlanta be inoculated against rabies.

The paper was introduced by Councilman Leo Suddeth, and had been approved by the sanitary committee. Mr. Couch stated that the humane society charged $1 to inoculate each dog, and that there were few other places in Atlanta where such work is done.

PARKING IN FRONT OF STOP SIGNALS TO BE FORBIDDEN

Parking on the right side of any street within 50 feet of boulevard stop signs will be illegal in the future, if Mayor Walter A. Sims signs an ordinance to that effect passed by city council Monday afternoon.

Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, author of the measure, stated that parking cars often prevent drivers from seeing the stop signs.

that unprecedented numbers would flow to us from Europe following the war; more than we could be sure of assimilating, more than the European countries could well spare. Had there been no limitations, the number of newcomers among us in the last four years would probably have been several millions greater.

"If we had been called upon to receive and place such a number, it may well be doubted whether they would have found their condition here much better than it was in Europe. Certainly our problem of helping adjust them to the new conditions and the hard competition of such a situation, would have been far more difficult."

War Responsible. Had there been no restriction, the terrible post-war conditions in Europe might have driven 8,000,000 persons to these shores in the last four years, the president thinks—three times the number that actually entered.

"We may well doubt whether that would have been to the advantage of either them or the country," he continued. "The welfare of all the people will be promoted by a truly national life. In these last few years we have all realized as never before the need to bring about the spiritual unification of this great people."

A hundred and ten million people, living together, may or may not constitute in the full sense a nation of a hundred and ten million.

"The war brought appreciation of this truth. We achieved our independence a century and a half ago. We confirmed our political union sixty years ago. We have all the true been struggling toward spiritual and moral unity."

"To gain and perfect it, we need just such interests and activities as those to which the Daughters of the American Revolution are so sincerely devoted. We need not only to draw the newcomers into our social structure, but we need also to make them contribute to its strength and beauty."

Mutual Interests. "We may gain much from them, in the diversification of our culture, the broadening of our interests, the developments of our literature and

CLEAN-UP-CAMPAIGN OFFICIALLY CLOSED

With a final meeting of the clean-up and paint-up committee Monday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce, the city's 1925 campaign was brought officially to a close. Reports of the various committees were read and General Chairman B. F. Fraser, Jr., announced that practically every detail of the clean-up program had been successfully carried out.

A permanent committee, to broaden and carry on the work started by the campaign, was created to form a regular part of chamber activities. Mr. Fraser was named as chairman by B. S. Barker, secretary of the chamber.

This committee, it was announced, will follow up the efforts of the women's division to obtain trash boxes for the city. It also will keep vigorously behind the enforcing of the city ordinances pertaining to disposal of rubbish, particularly the ordinance restraining merchants from sweeping trash and dirt from their stores into the streets.

Little credence is given reports that he intends to oust the three members of the board who disagreed with the majority members in this transaction. Mr. Coolidge has no power over the shipping board. It is responsible only to congress.

John M. Green was elected commander of Camp 159, United Confederate veterans, at the annual meeting held Monday afternoon in the city's office at the court house. I. D. Smith was made adjutant. Plans for the memorial day program at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Oakland cemetery were discussed.

A representative delegation of Atlantians will attend the annual meeting on May 20 to 22 of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington, at which time the new $2,000,000 home of the national chamber will be dedicated.

Among those who have stated definitely that they would be in attendance are Armand Max, Charles A. Wickersham, R. B. Pegram, R. L. Rugg, F. O. Stone, William Chandler, W. H. C. Smith and B. S. Barker. About 100 others are expected to join the delegation.

These reductions, it will be seen, tend to shut down on the flow from southern Europe with the leaving immigration from northern Europe somewhat freer. Congress thought that the northern Europeans, being closer to America by blood and religion, would assimilate more rapidly than the Latins, and hence that the need for restriction was not so great.

Sims Sees Local Dirt as Soundest Of Investments

Atlanta real estate offers as fine an investment as can be found in the country, and real estate values here are sounder than in any city in the south, according to a statement Monday by Mayor Walter A. Sims, who owns much real estate here.

"We have industry, agriculture and finances to make our real estate values sound," he said. "And those things are needed everywhere."

"I think that Atlanta has the greatest future of any city in the south, and that right now we are on the eve of an era of prosperity that will surpass anything of the past. I have not invested anything in Florida real estate—which is booming—and do not intend to, but instead, have put the money that I have earned and saved into Atlanta dirt."

COLEMAN RETURNS TO BANK JOB TODAY AS JURY CONVENES

When the Fulton county grand jury resumes consideration of the Oliver M. Coleman case today, the 23-year-old bank clerk and messenger will be filling his old position with the Farmers and Traders bank, 210 Peters street.

Coleman was confined in the police barracks three days last week when he reported to police and detectives that two unidentified bandits held him up at pistol point and relieved him of approximately $9,000 in currency and $10,000 worth of checks, which he was taking to a branch bank of the Atlanta and Lowry National bank.

Coleman reported that he was robbed between 8:45 o'clock and 10 o'clock last Tuesday morning being jailed by officers after they had grilled him a number of hours. He was released Friday morning by Recorder A. W. Calloway when detectives failed to appear in police court to prosecute charges against him.

J. W. Quigley and J. Logan, officials of the Logan-Long Roofing company, with headquarters in Cincinnati, arrived in Atlanta Monday morning to inspect the company's new $500,000 plant at 125 Sylvan road, which has just been completed.

Mr. Logan stated Monday that the trip of inspection was being made with the view of perfecting plans for increasing the force at the local plant and for further enlargement of the new plant, which he says is necessary because of the large amount of building going on in the southeast.

Mr. Logan is accompanied by his wife and will remain in the city several days to attend grand opera. He is registered at the Biltmore.

Delicate Gums

How to Firm them. Give them that healthy coral tint you envy

This NEW way will work great changes quickly. It combats the film authorities warn as inviting "off-color" teeth and unhealthy gums . . . make this unique test

"OFF-COLOR" teeth; gums that are softening, that lack firmness—you can't be attractive if you have them.

Now modern science has made important, new discoveries in overcoming them. A way that foremost dentists now are urging . . . the most remarkable of all dental methods.

This offers you a test. In fairness to yourself, send the coupon.

THAT FILM—the enemy of teeth and gums

Dental science now traces scores of those troubles, directly or indirectly, to a germ-laden film that forms on your teeth.

You can't see it with your eyes, but run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel it . . . a slippery, viscous coating.

That film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. And that is why your teeth look "off color" and dingy.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are a chief cause of pyorrhea and decay.

You can't have pretty teeth, unless you combat it. Highest authorities all tell you this.

Brushing won't end it

Ordinary dentifrices and cleansers won't fight film successfully. Feel for it now with your tongue. Note how your present cleansing method is failing in its duty.

Now new methods are being used. A dentifrice called Pepsodent—different in formula, action and effect from any other known.

Largely on dental advice the world has turned to it. Tooth and gum troubles hence are on the decline.

It removes that film. And firms the Gums

It accomplishes two important things at once: Removes that film, then firms the gums. No harsh grit, judged dangerous to enamel.

A few days' use will prove its power beyond all doubt. Why cling to old methods when world's authorities urge a better way?

VETERAN OF 83 SERIOUSLY HURT

D. F. Walden, 83-year-old Confederate veteran, of 103 Neal street, one of six persons hurt in automobile accident Monday, is in a serious condition at Grady hospital.

Others injured are: Miss M. Holbrook, 405 Simpson street; Mrs. S. W. Adams, 174 West Alexander street; Mrs. Rosa Lee Skinner, 95 West Baker street; Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, of the tenth ward, and Councilman Wylie Moore, of the seventh.

Hit by Street Car.
Miss Holbrook and Mrs. Adams were severely bruised when an out-of-control West Peachtree street car suddenly started backing down the hill on East Hunter street, between Pryor and Whitehall street.

The front wheels of the auto were broken and the car damaged about the radiator.

Mrs. Skinner reported to Patrolman M. V. Barnett that she was injured when her car was struck by another machine as she was on her way to her home, 95 West Baker street. She could not tell how the accident occurred. She was treated at Grady hospital.

The two council members were injured when Chosewood's automobile collided with a street car in East Hunter street.

Aged Veteran Hurt.
Walden was injured at Forsyth and Marietta street while trying to cross Forsyth street at Marietta.

The automobile that figured in the accident was driven by Miss Ann Jarrett, of 6 Belmont drive. Her mother, Mrs. M. B. Jarrett, was in the car with her daughter.

They told police that Mr. Walden, who appeared to be very feeble, lost his balance and walked into the side of the automobile. Two witnesses corroborated their story.

"Our car was moving on the 'go' signal, and Mr. Walden walked into the side of the car regardless of the red light. He paused as if waiting for us to pass, then leaped forward suddenly, falling against the right side of the car," Miss Jarrett stated.

Surgeons at Grady hospital stated Monday night that the veteran has a fractured skull, and is hurt internally.

Atlanta Office Buildings House 22,000 Persons

Fred Shaefer, secretary of the Atlanta association of building owners and managers, addressed members of the Secretaries' club at its monthly meeting Monday at the Wincoff hotel. B. C. Getsinger, president, presided. Among guests of the club was Hal M. Stanley, state commissioner of commerce and labor.

Mr. Shaefer told of activities of his organization and in the meantime presented a bit of interesting information regarding Atlanta's skyscrapers. He stated that in the 46 office buildings there were 8,205 offices with 2,335,770 square feet of rentable space, and the total number of elevators was 135.

A careful study of travel on the 135 elevators shows that more than 140,000 people ride them daily.

The population of Atlanta's office buildings, tenants and employees only, is at present 22,000.

In the Hurt, Atlanta has the largest office building south of New York city, and is rated about the 14th largest in the United States. It has 1,100 offices with 425,000 square feet of rentable space and 16 elevators.

As to the number and class of office buildings, Atlanta is head and shoulders ahead of any city of its size in the nation, in fact it ranks among cities of 400,000 to 600,000 inhabitants.

Arrangements were made for the club to hold its annual outing at Cascade Springs on May 15. Annual election of officers will also be held at the time.

PAINLEVE CABINET MAKES BOW TODAY

Paris, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The new French cabinet will make its bow before parliament tomorrow. Paul Painleve is at the head of the cabinet, but Aristide Briand, as foreign minister, and Joseph Caillaux, as finance minister, are the two most important figures in the cabinet.

In the chamber the premier will read the ministerial declaration, approved unanimously tonight by the first council of ministers, presided over by President Bourgeois. Simultaneously, M. Steeg, minister of justice, will perform a similar duty in the senate.

Friation Avoided.
The declaration deals chiefly with the problem of security; it is vague on financial policy and disposes of the religious question quickly, indicating the government's desire to relieve the present tension and avoid further friction with the church.

The indications are that the government will receive a comfortable majority in both houses. The customary state of confidence may be reached in the chamber late in the evening, or it may be deferred until Wednesday. The senate, after hearing M. Steeg, probably will adjourn until the chamber has defined its attitude toward the new government.

Interpellations will be presented by M. Cachin, the communist leader; M. Car, radical; M. Bertrand and M. Taubert, of the center and right parties. M. Cachin's interpellation is likely to cause the unusual commotion which has been the rule since the premier explained M. Caillaux's presence in the cabinet, seems highly inflammable.

Recess To Follow.
The two orators who are on the list for speeches are M. Landry, former minister of education, and M. Dussaut, both of whom are considered friendly to the incoming administration.

M. Painleve for two days has been conferring with the leaders and convening with delegations of the left groups, with the object of lining up the majority. Several of the smaller groups have not yet concurred on their attitude, and it is probable that a recess will be voted after the ministerial declaration, in order to enable those who have not decided upon their attitude to determine their course.

AMERICAN SAILORS LAND IN HONDURAS

Washington, April 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—One hundred and fifty-five officers and men from the cutter Denver of the special service squadron were landed today at Ceiba, Honduras.

They are under orders to protect American lives and property that may be endangered as a result of the revolutionary outbreak.

In the Denver by radio dispatches that the landing had been effected. Details of his report on the situation were not revealed, but other advice to the Washington government from Honduran sources tend to indicate that the revolutionary movement had assumed widespread proportions.

Fighting Is Reported.
Consul Walker advised the state department today that fighting had been reported in the vicinity of Ceiba. Other reports from Honduras said there had been disorders near the Guatemalan frontier. No mention was made in official dispatches of the movement reported in press advices and said to have resulted in the capture of Ocoatepe, about 50 miles from San Salvador.

Arrangements were made at the request of the American consul at Ceiba, supported by authorities of the port.

Disorders at Ceiba were said to have occurred at Ceiba and aroused the authorities to take precautionary steps for the protection of foreign lives and property.

American investments at Ceiba comprise mainly shipping facilities and warehouses, to protect which the American special service squadron landed armed detachments during the revolution which preceded the establishment of the present constitution at government.

MERCER DEBATERS WIN FROM EMORY

Emory University, Ga., April 20.—(Special.)—Mercer's freshman debating team defeated Emory's here tonight, Mercer having the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That the United States should recognize the present government of Russia as a de jure government."

Those representing Emory were J. R. Glen, of Sauter; Cobb Edwards, of Atlanta, and Glenn Elliott, of Royston. Mercer's team consisted of Frank Twitty, Robert Gunnells and R. H. Cason.

Former Governor Hugh M. Dorsey, J. Howell Green and Major R. J. Guinn were judges.

In presenting the affirmative side, the Emory freshmen brought out the points that Russia now has a stable government, and that if recognized, it will meet its international obligations. They also emphasized the good will that the United States would gain by such an action, and stated that it would mean an advance in economic, social and political relations between the two countries.

The Mercer team, in upholding the negative, denied that Russia would meet her international obligations if recognized. They proposed that this country grant Russia a de facto recognition rather than a de jure recognition, contending that this would give all the advantages of a de jure recognition without the disadvantages of an endorsement of the Russian government.

Bishop Brent is head of the Episcopal diocese of western New York and chancellor of Hobart college.

Boycott Is Urged
On Wales' Visit;
12 Blacks Killed

Capetown, South Africa, April 20.—Unrest is spreading among the African natives, according to reports received here. Thousands of handbills have been distributed in Johannesburg, urging that the Prince of Wales be boycotted when he visits that city.

This evidence of growing unrest followed the killing of twelve natives at Bloemfontein, where police broke up a riot among blacks who were protesting against the prohibition of beer.

Scores of native laborers have been arrested and others probably will be taken as the police activity continues. A police order commanding the angry workers to disperse by 3 p. m. had no effect, and when a detachment of police arrived to enforce the order, the natives resisted violently. The police then sent a volley into the black ranks.

The handbills at Johannesburg ask the blacks to boycott the prince "as the natives in India did," because "British imperialism, which is representative is about to tour Africa, is largely responsible for your exploitation."

Col. Sample To Speak

Colonel Sample came to Atlanta recently from Fort Snelling, Minn., to assume charge of the local recruiting office. His regiment at Fort Snelling for some time has been conducting experiments with snow shoes and he will discuss some of their experiences in drills and marches.

The association is now preparing a reception program for Major General Douglas MacArthur, new commander of the Fourth Corps area, who will arrive in Atlanta within the next few weeks, and Colonel Earl D.A. Pearce, who is in charge of tonight's program, has asked that all officers and ex-officers in Atlanta and vicinity be present.

Associated Press Gives Its Consent To Broadcasting

New York, April 20.—Radio broadcasting of news of transcendent national and international importance was favored at a meeting of Associated Press members today preliminary to the regular annual meeting tomorrow.

By a rising vote, it was recommended that the board of directors be authorized to permit restricted broadcasting of outstanding events under safeguards. A resolution on the subject of "radio's meeting of the day" will be before tomorrow's meeting for ratification.

The silver jubilee meeting of the Associated Press expressed its appreciation to Frank H. Noyes, of the Washington Star, who has been president since the organization in its present form was founded in 1900.

A committee was appointed to present to him a visible token of gratitude, esteem and affection.

Martin Given Silver Service.
A silver service was presented to Frederick Roy Martin, whose resignation as general manager takes effect Wednesday, and formal notice was given at the meeting of the appointment of Kent Cooper as Mr. Martin's successor.

In the presentation speech, Mr. Noyes said the gift was symbolic of very affectionate good wishes from those who had been associated intimately with Mr. Martin in his work with the Associated Press and from every member of the organization.

Mr. Martin expressed his regret over leaving the service, and the board of directors had been deeply affected.

Will Grow More Rapidly.
"The organization," he added, "I am confident will grow more rapidly than ever along the right lines. I believe it is a bulwark in the newspapers of the country against sensational, silly, superficial and slovenly reporting."

Mr. Martin offered Mr. Cooper any aid and cooperation within his power, saying: "He knows the organization more intimately than any other member of the staff, and he has a most loyal and intelligent staff. I hope this work will be as happy as I am confident it will be successful."

Maintained Best Traditions.
A resolution by the board of directors read at the meeting stressed Mr. Martin's maintenance of the best traditions of the Associated Press and his intelligent and dignified management of its affairs.

The regular annual meeting will begin at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, and the annual luncheon will begin at 1 p. m. The principal speaker at the luncheon will be Vice President Charles G. Dawes.

Mr. Noyes will preside. John McCormack will sing, and the proceedings will be broadcast, beginning at 2 o'clock p. m.

Sinclair Expects
Full Acquittal
On Teapot Dome

New York, April 20.—The Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation confidently expects an affirmation of the Teapot Dome release and the "acquittal" of the false charges that have been so loosely made in connection with the government investigation of it, Chairman Harry F. Sinclair says in his annual report to stockholders made public tonight.

"The report instituted by the government against the Mammoth Oil company, in which the Sinclair corporation has a stock interest, was tried at Cheyenne in the latter part of March," says Mr. Sinclair in referring to the Teapot Dome litigation. "When subjected to the cold scrutiny of a court of chancery, the inflammatory accusations so widely advertised were shown to be of the most flimsy character."

Net earnings of the corporation in 1924 totaled $16,426,330, an increase of approximately $3,000,000 over 1923, leaving a balance available for surplus and reserves of $10,950,972, slightly larger than in the preceding year. Gross earnings of $123,894,048 were approximately $16,000,000 larger.

Foundations of the Sinclair petroleum industry, Mr. Sinclair reports, have shown a distinct improvement, which should bring about a more normal market for refined products in 1925 and a resultant increase in the corporation's earnings.

WAR DEPARTMENT BARS DAWN-TO-DUSK FLIGHT

Selfridge Field, Mich., April 20.—The request of the first pursuit group, United States army for permission to repeat this summer an attempt to make a dawn-to-dusk flight in formation from its base here to Miami, Fla., has been denied by the war department, Major Thomas C. Lanphier commanding officer, announced today.

The war department held, Major Lanphier said, that the actual flying time of the unsuccessful attempt last winter proved the point the department wished to make, that the entire group could easily transfer its entire air fighting equipment from Michigan to Miami during days of such length as we now are having.

Major Lanphier added that formal approval of the Michigan-to-Florida flight had automatically caused temporary abandonment of the first pursuit group's plan to attempt a dawn-to-dusk flight from Selfridge field to San Francisco, followed by a night flight from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast.

Alabama Defeats Aggies In Fast Pitchers' Battle

University, Ala., April 20.—(Special.)—Lefty Bolton, ace of the Mississippi A. & M. squad, and Hot Moore, Alabama youngster, hooped up in a fast hurling duel this afternoon which was won by Alabama, 2 to 1. Bolton and Moore both received some ragged support at times, but Moore's support tightened in the pinches.

The Crimson were quite deserving of the first win against the southern conference champions of last year. They played miserable ball behind Moore in the few first frames, especially, Sewell, but they all fought hard in the pinches and even Sewell started a fast double play that pulled Moore out of a deep one.

Five Hits Each.
Five hits were garnered off of each pitcher, all of them coming widely scattered throughout the game. Barnes' home run drive off of Bolton in the first frame, a drive that sailed far over Turner's head, secured the only earned run of the day. Bolton struck out ten Crimson and walked two and Moore fanned four and walked four. There was a little to choose between pitchers to-day.

After Barnes rapped out his homer and the Crimson had scored twice in the second frame when Stuart misused twice, Bolton settled down and whizzed 'em by. He never got into serious trouble again, although the Crimson pecked his delivery for three blows in six frames.

The Crimson scored twice in the first frame. The Crimson scored twice in the first frame. The Crimson scored twice in the first frame.

FINAL RITES FOR EBBETS TODAY

New York, April 20.—Uncle Charlie Ebbets, the man who ran the price of a scorecard up to one of the big baseball fortunes, will be buried Tuesday in the soil of Brooklyn, the city within a city, where he lived his life, fought his fights and made his reputation. Riding over the cobbled roads to Greenwood cemetery in the big black Pullman limousine behind Uncle Charlie will be a long train of the high, the lowly and the in-between of baseball.

Judge K. M. Landis, commissioner of organized baseball, will go to the end of the journey and perhaps drizzle a faithful earth onto the box as Ebbets is laid away, and so will the chore-boys, the bottle-harvesters and scorecard peddlers of Ebbets field, who have the same chain that Charlie had. For Ebbets began as a scorecard huckster and ticket taker in an old Brooklyn ball yard more than 40 years ago.

The Dodgers, Uncle Charlie's ball team, will put on their dark suits and go to the grave with the departed boss, their old disputes forgotten, the rancor of their spectacular business squabbles with him now dissolved by the death of a man who was at least game and consistent in the right or in the wrong. The flags will wave half-way down the masts on all the baseball parks of the National league for the next month and there will be no games at all in the National Tuesday.

John Heydler, president of the National league; Charlie Stenbaum, majority owner of the Giants; Christy Mathewson, now the titular owner of the Boston Braves—in fact, all the clubowners of the league and a delegation of baseball writers who knew Ebbets will be honorary pallbearers in a list of fifteen.

The Rev. John Williams, pastor of Calvary Episcopal church, an old friend of Ebbets, will preach the funeral sermon.

Ed McKeever, one of Ebbets' associates in the ownership of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has succeeded Uncle Charlie as president of the firm.

Boys' High, Tech High and the freshmen of Georgia Tech have a three-cornered track meet set for Grant field this afternoon. The competition is expected to be keen and the time fast when the leading stars of the G. I. A. A. wearing the gold of Tech High or the purple of Boys' High clash with the young jacket runners. Several interesting races will be run and the meet is attracting a lot of interest.

The prep stars are being pushed to the limit these days with at least one meet a week and they are going to have to be in great condition to stand the pace. Boys' High and Tech High have already participated in two meets, one last Saturday and the other the previous Saturday. Tech High won the fifth district at Emory Saturday week in splendid style, taking a raft of first places, and was the high point scorer of G. I. A. A. teams in the Tech relays.

After the triangular run this afternoon, both the high school teams will have a day of rest and then train for Sewanee, to enter the invitational meet which the Tigers stage every spring.

ATTENDANCE LOW

Charlotte, N. C., April 20.—Perfect weather conditions failed to bring out more than an attendance of 3,500 at the opening game of the South Atlantic association here today when Greenville beat Charlotte, 7 to 5. It was the smallest opening-day attendance in years. Walsh, of Greenville, and Kennedy, the Hornets' manager, both hit homers.

MELLOR WINS MARATHON EVENT

Boston, April 20.—Over more than 25 miles of the hilly roads that reach from Hopkinton to Boston, Charles L. (Chuck) Mellor, the veteran Illinois A. C. long distance star, plodded to a spectacular victory in the annual Boston A. C. marathon.

In winning the 26th race over the course, Mellor defeated Clarence Demar, the 37-year-old Melrose sprinter, who had won the grueling event four times and who started Monday as the favorite.

Running easily and apparently with plenty of reserve strength, Mellor sped across the finish line at the B. A. C. club house in 2 hours, 33 minutes and 25 of a second, 4 minutes behind the mark hung up by Demar last year.

In spite of weather that was cold and raw, 85 entrants started in the long grind, which this year was the official national marathon championship. Of this number not more than half finished.

Mellor, who in his many previous attempts had never been able to finish better than second, came in about 75 yards ahead of the tireless Demar, who had clung to his heels from the half way mark.

Buna Won In '21.
Frank Buna, the Newark, N. J. plodder who won the event in 1921 was third, several hundred yards in front of Whitney Michaelson, of East Portchester, N. Y.

Carl Koski and Willie Kyronen, of the Finnish A. C. of New York, and Victor MacCauley, Windsor, N. S., and Nestor Erickson, another Finnish A. C. runner, straggled in behind Michaelson in the order named. Bill Kennedy, the white-haired Port Chester, N. Y. bricklayer, was ninth, and Frank Wendlong, of Buffalo, was tenth.

Mellor ran a heady race, apparently thoroughly confident of his own ability to maintain the pace.

For about half the race he was content to keep among the leaders, but in the hard climb over the hills near Newton Falls he gradually moved to the front and together with Demar pulled away from the leading pack.

Eight miles from the finish Mellor assumed the undisputed lead and from there in the determined Demar was his only serious contender.

Throughout the race Mellor chewed tobacco to keep his mouth moistened. Demar nibbled chocolates for the same purpose.

FIRST LADIES' DAY FOR '25 SEASON IS ANNOUNCED

The ladies, Lord bless 'em, get into the magnificent ball park built by Mr. Spiller for the Atlanta baseball club, free TODAY.

Michaelson, president of the ball club, announced Sunday that the first of the ladies' days of the season would arrive on Tuesday. Here it is.

The Pelicans from New Orleans will be the first attraction for the ladies.

Instead of two ladies' days, as was the custom last season, there will be only one each week, Tuesday, this year.

Four Local Preps Clash Today on Diamond

Tech High Meets Marist, Decatur Plays Commercial; Other Contest Postponed

BY GORDON KEITH.

Tech High engages the Marist nine at Almond park, and Decatur High meets Commercial at Grant park, this afternoon in the second games between the four teams and the opening battles of the second round of the league schedule.

The feature game of the day, the Boys' High-G. M. A. tilt, has been postponed until Wednesday in order that the classic may be played on the enclosed Almond park field, since the Smithies had already engaged the diamond for today.

All four teams looked good in practice Monday and are in the best condition of the season. Tech High has been idle since last Wednesday, nearly a week, and the Smithies are anxious for action. Marist is fresh from its first victory of the season last Friday and is in as good shape as ever, however unbroken. Decatur is in high spirits as a result of its 10-3 victory over Boys' High Friday, and Commercial is in as good shape as ever, however dangerous that may be.

The hurlers. The pitchers that are slated for duty this afternoon are Moon, of Tech High; Fee for Marist; Murdoch for Decatur; and Whitfield for Commercial. Fee and Whitfield have been worked hard lately, but are as good as ever after the rest over the week-end, while Murdoch and Moon are prime to twirl.

Johnny Moon, the Smithie speed artist, beat Decatur last Wednesday, and is out to add another scalp to his win column. Lagonarino will receive Moon's shins behind the bat, the veteran Lyle will aid Murdoch against Commercial in the capacity of catcher, Hale will complete the cadet battery, and either Morgan or Landers will receive for the Typist hurler.

In the way of dope and past performances, Tech High and Decatur should be easy winners. The Smithies beat Marist in the season's opener by some 16 runs in a slugfest for the Gold, while Decatur had an easy time stopping Commercial with a 10-2 score.

But that all happened several weeks ago, and although both clubs will like to repeat, both games are going to be better exhibitions of baseball, with the Smithie-Cadet battle standing a good chance of turning into a real classic.

Lefty Willis allowed the Vandebilt Commodores only one hit in their opening game yesterday and the Petrel batters slammed out enough hits off Moss to give them a 10-0 victory. After the first inning the Petrel moundman was never in danger of being scored on.

After the Commodores' only hit, which came in the third inning, the Petrel batters were helpless against the offerings of the Petrel southpaw, about the best they could do being to send easy flies to the infield or slow rollers to the pitcher's box. The Petrel moundman had six easy assists during the afternoon and sent eight of the Commodores back after they had whiffed the breeze.

Duke Terrell is the man to whom Willis owes the credit for his shutout victory. The Commodores made their only threat in the first inning and if it had not been for a perfect throw from right field by him, the Commodores would have chalked up a marker in this frame. Walker walked and took third on the Commodores' only safety, a single by Ryan. Gil Reese, the next man up, sent a long fly to right, on which Terrell made a beautiful throw that nabbed Ryan by several feet.

Infield Holds. The Petrel infield worked perfectly behind Willis, not a single miscue being charged to them during the afternoon. It was also the first time the Petrels have played throughout a game without a change in their lineup. The inner works had little to do in aiding Willis to put the game on the won side after the first inning. All the chances were easy rollers or pop flies that resulted in pop outs without much exertion on the part of Petrel infielders. The Commodores drew only two free passes during the afternoon.

CONSTITUTION BALL SEASON OPENS

The Constitution baseball team will play the Georgia Railway and Power company nine at the Oakland City park Wednesday afternoon. Both nines have been putting in some diligent practice lately and a lively contest is anticipated.

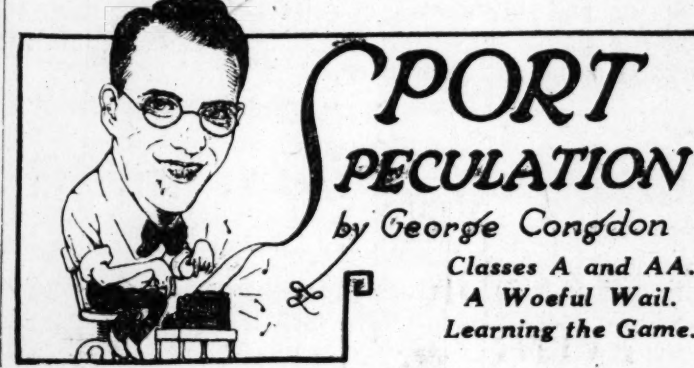

The Constitution team would like to schedule games with amateur teams of the city any day of the week except Tuesday or Saturday. The Pep Class team of the Royal League also wants to book amateur games for any day except Saturday.

MUNN TO GET SECOND CHANCE

Chicago, April 20.—Mord Fitzsimmons, Michigan City, Ind., promoter, who offered $500,000 for a wrestling match between Ed ("Strangler") Lewis and Wayne ("Big") Munn, before the giant Nebraska collegian lost to Stanislaus Zyzsko, said tonight he would make an effort to close a Munn-Lewis contest, despite the fact that Munn no longer has a claim to the world's heavyweight championship.

"Before Munn lost to Zyzsko he was the sensation of the mat," Fitzsimmons said. "If he had been defeated under ordinary circumstances I would not have given a Lewis-Munn match a thought, but as he was ill when he met Zyzsko, the wrestling fans believe he is entitled to a match with Lewis."

SPORT PECULATION
by George Congdon
Classes A and AA.
A Woeeful Wall.
Learning the Game.

HOW many times have you heard it said that "the Southern league ought to be an AA league?" We've heard it scores of times during the training season this year and just as frequently all during last season. The Southern league teams play ball that qualifies for AA rating in a large number of games. That same kind of ball would be played all season by the Southern league teams if the Southern were an AA league. And simply because Class AA leagues permit the carrying of more than 16 or 18 players during the season.

Figure it out for yourself. The only difference between Class A baseball and Class AA baseball is the sustained power of the Class AA team over the flashing of power by a Class A team. Sixteen men can't carry on, day in and day out, though they be just as good players, as 25 men, who are worked alternately.

BERT NIEHOFF brought up the subject yesterday in the Cracker clubhouse at the ball park as he was lying on the rubbering table getting a Charlie-horse whipped out of his left leg. "Here I am with a Charlie-horse, and now Red Smith is out for several days at least with his split thumb," he remarked with a wry expression. "Certainly would be better if we could carry a couple of extra men."

A team of 16 men, six of whom must necessarily be pitchers can't keep up the attack unless all the nines are still in its horseshoe. The fact that the Crackers could carry only 16 men may have cost them the pennant last year. But that's last year. Niehoff is faced this year with a situation similar to that of last year. Injuries! They're the bugaboo of Southern league managers. They're the bugaboo of any manager who can carry only one extra fielder on his roster. The fact that they cripple a Class A team, whereas they are only incidents in a Class AA team is the margin of the difference.

A WOEFUL wall is credited to the Lookouts in a recent issue of The Chattanooga Times, and it comes from the pen, or mill, rather, of Brother Foster, our ample and sportive friend, who works for The Times much as we do for this example of wisdom, justice and moderation. In a little less than a column in The Times, Brother Foster writes: "Chattanooga players returning from Atlanta last night brought back a spirit of intense indignation against their opponents of the first five games, the Atlanta Crackers. Bert Niehoff, it will be remembered, was accused by a number of teams last year, of instilling a spirit of rough play into his team that threatened bodily injury to any players who faced them."

BROTHER FOSTER rars along with many words and much rancor, laying most of the charges on "the Chattanooga players." Very likely the Chattanooga players are learning their onions now. Let it be noted that the two men who got mixed up in Atlanta spikes in the Chattanooga games were young ones, Crossley, a young third baseman, and Olivares, the Cuban shortstop, who still has much knowledge of baseball to acquire.

We saw the play in Chattanooga in which Crossley was ripped up on Bert Niehoff's spikes. First of all, the throw to Crossley put the ball in the dust three feet in front of the plate. Second, Crossley stood squarely in front of the bag and stuck his hands to the dust just as Bert started sliding. Better blame the low peg to third. The way Crossley stood to take it, the only thing that would have prevented his getting tangled up with spikes would have been bedroom slippers on Bert's Number Nines.

THE complaint about Olivares being spiked by Niehoff as the Cracker skipper slid into second on a double in the opening game here is going to be answered better later this season. Olivares simply gets in the way of spikes and some day, unless he changes his style of sliding headfirst into a bag, he'll come out with a torn-up scalp. He has as much to learn about sliding and baseball generally as he has of the English language.

Joe Jenkins was badly smashed up in the Detroit exhibition game here when Rip Collins sliding into the plate, knocked the Atlanta catcher on his back. Jenkins has been out of the game nursing a sprained back since then. But Niehoff, or any of the other Atlanta players—much less Joe—have gone about proclaiming that Tob Cobb is instilling roughness into his team's play. Baseball teams don't go around maiming other baseball teams purposely. But a good many veterans are going around with spike scars they acquired in their rookie days.

WHO should lope into our private office last night but One-Eyed Connelly, wearing his sunburned pick up while he lolled on the sands of Florida beaches and headed north by way of Charlotte, where he will see the automobile races free of charge, thank you. Reckon he'll crash the gate disguised as Pussyfoot Johnson. Pussyfoot has only one glim going, too, you'll remember.

Nineteen Hits Gathered By Locals; Red Smith Out With Hurt Finger

BY GEORGE CONGDON.

Buzzer Bill Whittaker, the one-eyed gent of pet pitching proclivities, who draws his salary from the New Orleans baseball company, was pounded from in front of the plate to the scoreboard yesterday in the Crackers' second week helping to first-place pie. Slugging Bill from the first inning to the last, the Crackers totaled 11 runs to the one knocked in by the Pelicans at the expense of Hughie Bedient, Niehoff's fancy right-hander.

Atlanta won the game, but lost heavily when Red Smith, who has started this season with his eye again on the top of the hitting column, split open a thumb in a spurt of infield pepper work after two were down in the first half of the ninth. Smith will be out of the game a week at least. Mike Gazella, utility infielder, will work on the hot corner, and while his fielding is snappy, his hitting is not Red's.

Murphy finished the game yesterday in Red's place, with Harry Courtney, left-handed pitcher, on first, as Niehoff left the place at the keystone in the eighth, with Gazella shifting to second and Krehmeyer going back in at short after the mending of a split finger.

McLaughlin vs. Martins. Hollis McLaughlin, right-handed holdover from last season's Crackers, will start today's game against one Pels, Niehoff announced last night, while the selection of Larry Gilbert for the box job probably will fall on Courtney.

Whittaker was a marked man in the first inning of yesterday's game when Niehoff, Good and Smith poked base hits and Murphy knocked a double, all in the first frame. In the third Buzzer Bill gave up three hits for one run, and in the fourth was slammed for four hits, one a triple, and three more runs. Still, Gilbert let him go on until the Crackers' hit total was 19, apparently figuring that it would be useless to send good money after bad.

Bedient was the same steady, baffling slugger in yesterday's game that he was in the opener here last Thursday. He was marked for only eight hits, and two of these came in the final frame when he let down a bit and was socked for a triple by Pete Lapan and a single by Myers. The Pels scored their only run when Lapan, on third by his own mighty swing, was scored by Ewald's sacrifice fly to Cullup in deep center field.

Pels Threaten. In the second inning the Pels hit Bedient for a pair of hits and the bases were loaded with only one out. He pulled out of this hole though when Smith took Myers' grounder to third and cut off Tucker at the plate, and Whittaker forced Ewald out at third.

Wilbur Good led the Crackers in their slugging attack on Buzzer Bill, the boy who was the death of the Crackers several times in the season. Good poured four singles into the outfield in five times at bat, while Zoeller was a close second with two triples and a single in six times up. Niehoff, Smith, Murphy, Brock and Bedient all got two hits each. One of Niehoff's slugs was a triple while the others got a two-bagger apiece.

Gilbert drew a nice ripe raspberry in the latter part of the game when he accused Bedient of using an emery ball. But Bedient's shots were sailing like an emery ball. In fact, Bedient hadn't had to use an emery ball to win his games. Gilbert not only drew a walk but dugout from Bill Brennan, who made his 1925 debut behind the Atlanta plate, but was cushioned by the fact that a crop of raspberry produced that settled back of third base whenever the Crackers appear.

The Crackers scored their first pair of runs in the first inning when Niehoff singled, advanced on Good's single, and Tucker, when Ewald dropped Good's single and both Good and the skipper counted on Smith's sacrifice single into left field.

In the sixth the Crackers added another when Cullup laid a hit in center field, was advanced to third by Smith's single to left, and scored after the catch of Murphy's long sacrifice fly to Tucker in right field. Buzzer Bill went down for the third and last time in the fourth when the Crackers made their total six. Bedient lead off with a scorching single to left and scored when Niehoff knocked a triple to the scoreboard that missed being a homer by an inch. The ball bounced against the scoreboard just an inch above a big hole that would have put it out of sight and out of reach. The skipper scored on a trim single to right by Good, who stole second and trotted in when Murphy laid a single to first.

In the sixth the Crackers added one when Smith walked, took second on Murphy's grounder to Whittaker and raced home as Myers let Brock's fast grounder to short run into left field. The eighth run came when the Crackers took their seventh whack at the onion. Two errors contributed to the run. Niehoff was safe at first when Myers kicked his grounder and scored when Tucker, in right field, let Good's drive for a single get away from him.

Buzzer Bill was already buried, but the Crackers pushed some more dirt over his face in the eighth with a row of doubles that cut the air down the third base line as though they were caught in a groove. With two down, Gazella and Smith were on first, a double. Brock scored when Bedient drove his third double down the alley.

METROPOLITAN OPENS FIFTEENTH OPERA SEASON HERE WITH BRILLIANT PERFORMANCE OF "LA GIOCONDA"

Large Audience Receives Premiere Enthusiastically

As the great curtain of the city auditorium parted Monday evening on the rich Venetian setting of "La Gioconda," Atlanta witnessed with feeling of pride, of appreciation, of joyful anticipation the opening of the fifteenth spring season of grand opera.

Enthralled by the richly picturesque atmosphere and the interesting harmonies of the tuneful opera, the vast audience in all its splendor sat spell-bound through the beautiful aria, "Heaven and Ocean," sung by the young Italian tenor, Giacomo Lauri-Volpi; thrilled to the exquisite high notes of Frances Peralta, in the title role; and enjoyed without restraint the charming ballet, "Dance of the Hours," for which the opera is famous.

Appropriate Opening.

Recently restored and said to be the most gorgeous of the Metropolitan repertoire, the production formed a most appropriate opening bill by reason of the "all-star cast," the many tuneful melodies, the popular ballet and the orchestration so generously colored. Dating back to those halcyon days when the untrained music-lover was considered and before melody was banished from the opera house in favor of uneasy harmonies, "La Gioconda" strikes a popular appeal. Introducing to a southern audience Lauri-Volpi, whose sweet tenor has made an enviable place for himself in New York, in South America, and in the leading theaters of his native heath, Italy, "La Gioconda" entirely fulfilled the breathless expectation of southern music lovers whose growth of musical appreciation, through the fourteen seasons of Metropolitan opera has been little short of phenomenal.

Lovely Costumes

The Countess of Lauderdale, one of the most distinguished visitors attending opera, was the center of admiration and attention in Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Mitchell's box. She wore an exquisite creation of pale yellow chiffon embroidered in pearls and rhinestones and the entire bodice was of gold and silver design, ropes of pearls formed graceful finish to her arms.

The lovely costumes which formed a sea of gorgeous color in the vast auditorium and are always an interesting and absorbing part of this great social event were never more brilliant than on the auspicious opening of the fifteenth annual season. Filmy chiffon which are so much in vogue this season, combined with gaily colored sequins, myriads of crystal beads which caught the lights and held them, delicate perfumes which were wafted to and fro by beautiful feather fans, the exotic odors of orchids and valley lilies, the gleam of handsome jewels—all combined created the wonderful atmosphere which characterizes grand opera.

Capital City Club Opens Social Activities

Lovely Society Belles Attend Opera

Supper-Dance Draws Crowd After Opera

Festival spirit and gracious hospitality reigned at the annual supper-dance Monday evening at the Capital City club following the opera "La Gioconda," initiating a series of brilliant social functions to be given in connection with opera week. The occasion marked the formal presentation of the artists and officers of the Metropolitan Opera company to Atlanta society for the 1925 season and assembled several hundred representative Atlantans and distinguished visitors. The magnificent ballroom of this popular club afforded a brilliant setting with its handsome and appropriate decorations. Quantities of foliage plants, bright-colored flowers, sweet-singing canaries, playing water fountains and miniature blossoming trees transformed the spacious room into a veritable garden.

Artists' Table.

The artists' table was adorned by five large Japanese bird cages, holding singing canaries. Soft green moss and flowers in the Dresden shades alternated with the cages, while plateaus of yellow daisies and snapdragons added to the loveliness of the decoration. Vari-colored spring flowers, artistically arranged in French baskets, ornamented the individual tables placed around the outer edge of the ballroom.

Seated at the artists' table were officials and artists of the Metropolitan company, the directors of the Atlanta Music Festival association, the directors, officers, past officers and their wives of the Capital City club.

Opera Stars Present.

Among the opera stars present were Jeanne Gordon, Jose Marcondes, Marion Telva, Lucracia Bori, Frances Alda, Kathleen Howard, Antonio Scotti, Lawrence Tibbett, Giuseppe Danise, Giacomo Lauri-Volpi, Louis D'Angelo, Vincenzo Roschiglian and Giordano Patrignieri. # NIGHT PERFORMANCE TUESDAY ALLOWS FULL SOCIAL PROGRAM

Many Social Events Fill Afternoon and Night Hours

Tuesday's social calendar rather establishes a precedent in that heretofore during the Metropolitan opera season, society had only a part of the day in which to enjoy a program of wonderful events staged for the forenoon, and followed by a matinee.

But with Verdi's "Falstaff" cast for Tuesday evening, the entire day will be given over to flitting from one gala entertainment to another, with distinguished visitors and prominent Atlantans as the center attraction. With tea-dances at the Georgian Terrace and Biltmore, and suppers scheduled for Tuesday evening following the opera at the Capital City club and Biltmore, society will plan for a full day.

A brilliant occasion will be the luncheon at which Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Ellis will entertain at their handsome Peachtree circle home, complementing their lovely New York visitors, Mrs. Norman Dike and Mrs. Willard Brown. The presence of the Countess of Lauderdale and her hosts Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gunby Mitchell; Mr. and Mrs. John Jay Watson, of New York, who are the feted guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Dozier Little will make their luncheon one of the most interesting occasions of opera week. Mrs. T. C. Olney, of New Orleans, who is visiting Mrs. William F. Spalding, will be the guest of honor in Mrs. Clifford C. Hatcher's party.

Debutantes Entertain.

The debutantes will take an important part in today's social gaieties, for they will be hostesses at parties complimenting Misses Frances Hill and Emily Warner, the beautiful guests of Miss Callie Orme, a charming debutante. Miss Aileen Harris will give a luncheon at her Fourteenth street home for them, and Miss Virginia Gunn's bridge-tee will honor these Tennessee visitors, given at the hostess' home on Peachtree circle; and they will attend the tea-dance at the Biltmore as Miss Catherine Raines' guests. In the evening Miss Orme and her guests will grace the opera box of Mr. and Mrs. Aquila Orme, and William Sibley will be their host at the Biltmore supper-dance following the presentation of "Falstaff."

Savannah Visitors.

Mrs. Arthur Stevens, of Savannah, another fair visitor, will be the central figure at the luncheon given by Mrs. L. O. Bricker at the Piedmont Driving club and Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dickey will entertain at the supper-dance at the Capital City club for their daughter, Mrs. Stevens. Mrs. Pratt Adams and Mrs. Harry Smart are notable Savannahians who are to be feted at the tea-dance at the Biltmore this afternoon. Another visitor, Mrs. Buford Goodwin, of Birmingham, Ala., who is here for opera will be honor guest at the bridge-tee at which Mrs. A. E. Erwin will be hostess, and again at the party given by her hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bridges at the Capital City club supper-dance.

Mrs. Paul Baker To Entertain.

Mrs. Paul Baker will entertain informally at tea Wednesday at her home on Peachtree road in compliment to Mrs. Collier Butt, a recent bride. Eight close friends have been invited.

West End Study Class To Meet.

The West End Study class will meet Wednesday, April 22, at 10:45 o'clock with Mrs. W. S. Kell at 729 Peachtree street in Decatur.

Interesting News of Washington Seminary.

Miss Scott and the faculty of the Washington seminary entertained the Junior class on Saturday morning at a heart dice party. The tables were placed on the broad veranda overlooking the lawn. Mrs. Davis received the faculty prize. Misses Gussie Dunbar and Dorothy Bowman made the highest score among the girls. Miss Sarah Sanders received the trophy prize.

Throughout the morning there was an air of pleasant mystery. This was solved when after the luncheon, Miss Laura Cantler became "mistress of ceremonies," taking her stand behind a table laden with packages. One of the pupils had suffered recent losses from two fires. What had not been burned had been damaged by smoke and water. The packages were visible proof of quick sympathy. The packages revealed many articles to delight the heart of a girl: silk hose, silk underwear, handkerchiefs, shippers, dresses and an opera ticket to the "Tales of Hoffmann," from Miss Emma Scott.

The violin recital of Miss Ruth Dabney Smith on Friday evening was an occasion of general interest. A representative and discriminating audience by their attention and applause stamped her work with its approval. The program was well balanced from the view point of showing technique and enjoyment. Perhaps the numbers giving most pleasure were the group of four compositions with some passages of beautiful light staccato work and others with a marked singing quality.

Miss Smith wore a dainty pink frock simply fashioned. Miss Josephine Scott's piano numbers were enthusiastically received. Miss Smith entertained Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home on the Prado in honor of the faculty and seniors of the Washington seminary.

The house was lavishly decorated with bouquets and baskets of flowers which were a tribute of love to her on the previous evening. Cooking Class at Druid Hills Church. A cooking class will be sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church during the week of April 27-May 1, under the direction of Mrs. F. H. Standfield. The class will meet each day from 10 to 12 o'clock in the social hall of the church, 728 Ponce de Leon avenue. Mrs. Standfield is one of the best known and most popular of the city.

Peachtree Garden Club Sponsors A. C. Wyatt's Lovely Paintings

The Peachtree Garden club will sponsor an exhibition of English and American gardens, including a special exhibit of Magnolia Gardens, of Charleston, S. C., throughout the week at the Atlanta Biltmore. Mrs. Reuben Arnold is chairman of the hostess committee and an invitation is extended to the public to attend the exhibition.

These exquisite paintings are by A. C. Wyatt, who has been awarded two gold medals for landscape paintings by the Royal Institute of watercolorists, London, and was also awarded the only diploma of honor for garden painting by the Royal International Horticultural exhibition, London, in 1912. Mr. Wyatt is a horticulturist himself and his pictures prove his intimate knowledge of the subjects for his flowers all have character.

Wonders of Magnolia.

Mr. Wyatt has pictured the wonders of Magnolia Gardens in all of its mystic, magic spell, and has caught the exquisite coloring which is so alluring in its beauty. He has introduced the spirit of Magnolia Gardens, and reproduced it on canvas in the most realistic manner. Mr. Wyatt's success lies in the long years of study and training, and has produced the most satisfactory results. It is said of the painting of his flowers that he makes them live and glow, and that they seem almost to exhale perfume.

Old Traditions.

Mr. Wyatt is an Englishman whose progress through various British and Continental Art Schools resulted in a thorough saturation of old traditions. But instead of following these, he broke just about as far away from them as it is possible to conceive. The brilliance of his color, the sharpness of his outline, is striking to a degree, and yet, without, he has a fine sympathetic sense for softness and delicacy. His pictures show a noteworthy combination of breadth and minuteness—wide vistas, endless perspective, with detail so marked that the tiny petals of a flower suggest in their distinctness that they have been painted beneath a magnifying glass.

One of the most arresting pictures in the collection is "Topiary Garden, Levens Hall," a portrait of an old-world retreat. The sharply clipped conical bushes shown profusely, give the painting its name, and against a beautiful old house of the 15th century, the flaming colors of the garden stand in bold relief. "Shakespeare's Garden" showing the back of the home in which the poet was born, is another picture that compels fervent admiration. It is the study for the work done for the late King Edward, "Grand Border at Wellbeck," is a study for the larger picture painted for the Duke and awarded the diploma of honor at the Royal International Horticultural exhibition in 1912. He has struck a new note in garden painting, and one that is almost revolutionary. But he has found at the same time the very essence of art.

Operantic Notes

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Antonio Scotti admits that he is dieting. But it is dieting to put on flesh, not take it off.

"I eat all the bread and potatoes, drink all the water I can," he said Monday.

Nevertheless, the grand old tenor has lost 14 pounds in weight during the New York opera season. The reason? Because he plays the name role in "Falstaff," Verdi's opera, which is to be given at the auditorium Tuesday night.

"The make-up for the part of the fat knight is so hot it's like taking a Turkish bath with every performance," he said. "I'm doing my darndest, but get thinner every time I sing it." So all that host of fair and corpulent ladies who jump at every possible chance to drop a few pounds, might make a note of Mr. Scotti's costume tonight.

Box office receipts for the week were $47,000," he said, "and the prices were so low that I don't believe they averaged as much as a dollar a seat."

STARS RUSH TO OUT-OF-DOORS.

After reaching the city in the early hours of Monday morning, rushing to their hotels and breakfasting, the majority of stars were not to be found around their hotels later in the day. Those who sang in the opening opera Monday night, were resting for the occasion in their rooms, of course, but nearly all others were away with Atlanta friends enjoying the delights of Atlanta's summer weather, after leaving overcast temperatures behind in New York.

WORD "OPERA" PUZZLES WRITER.

Speaking personally, one of the most puzzling things in writing about opera is the word "opera" itself, in regard to the singular and plural. The word is, of course, plural to begin with, the singular being "opus," a work. Yet you can't refer to one performance as "an opus," for it is really a collection of works by a number of people—the composer, the librettist, etc. It seems incorrect to say "an opera," or "the opera," using it in the singular form. Yet you wouldn't speak of the performance of "La Gioconda" last night, as "these opera." And it also is palpably wrong to say "seven operas," when "seven opera" is correct. But you know what we mean?

Louise Hunter is just as pretty as memory from last year has been picturing her all year. There are few better-looking little girls in the operatic roster. It is encouraging to remember that she is coming to Atlanta for six weeks during the summer season of light opera. She ought to be a regular Atlantan by that time.

ATLANTA LAUDED BY SCOTTI.

Antonio Scotti—he means so much to Atlanta opera that it's impossible to write half a column without bringing him in twice—was talking on the terrace at the Biltmore hotel Monday afternoon about his first visit to this city 16 or 17 years ago, when Geraldine Farrar and he sang here in concert. That was the time when he suggested the idea of an annual season of Metropolitan opera, thus making himself the official father of opera in Atlanta.

There were about 75,000 inhabitants in the city then," he told the surroundings. "but they took in something like $20,000 at one performance. Some city, this, and growing better every year."

Among stars registered at the Georgian Terrace are Giovanni Martinelli, Leon Rothier, Vincenzo Reschiglian, Adamo Didur, Giuseppe Danise and Lucereza Borl. Gennaro Papi, conductor, also is there.

The great Chaliapin has not yet reached the city. He doesn't sing until Friday night, when he appears in the title role of Blot's "Mefistofeles." He is expected to arrive either today or Wednesday.

WAGNER'S "LOHENGRIN" PROVES POPULAR.

One of the seven performances which is attracting remarkable attention among advance ticket buyers in the Thursday matinee "Lohengrin." The Wagnerian masterpiece is to be presented with one of the greatest casts ever to sing on the auditorium stage. Elizabeth Reihertz, the new Dresden soprano; Michael Bohlen, the basso; Curt Taucher, tenor; Clarence Whitehill, baritone; Julia Clausen, contralto, and Lawrence Tibbett, baritone, make up a list of singers that could not be surpassed anywhere. It is the only appearance of the week for many of them, and evidently the wise among local opera-goers are not going to miss this really unusual opportunity.

The flood of out-of-town visitors who reached the city from all parts of the south—and in fact the entire country—Monday created an unusual atmosphere of metropolitanism on Peachtree street. For instance, as nearly as can be reproduced, this accent was overheard from two charming young women:

"Nau, ah dunt wunt yeh too gon. Yule maak me get somethin' with red in it."

"I want, I want at arl."

One magnificent evening gone. Six more performances to come. What a week!

DINNER STORIES

The bookish young man went to look at an apartment in a spiffy new building.

"There is no built-in bookcase," he said to the agent. "Nor do I see where my own bookcases would fit in."

"Books!" said the sleek young agent, "why, sir, no one needs books these days, with the radio!"

A London boy told the teacher that his sister had measles. The teacher sent him home and told him to stay there until his sister had recovered.

After he had skipped joyfully away another boy held up his hand and said:

"Teacher, Jimmy Dolan's sister what's got the measles lives in Liverpool."

Young Jack had just returned from a painful interview with the minister, to whom he had said, in reply to a question, that there were 100 commandments. Upon meeting another lad on his way to the minister's, he said:

"An' if he asks you how many commandments there are, what will ye say?"

"Say?" queried the other lad.

"Why, ten, o' course."

"Ten?" reiterated the first youth in scorn. "Ten? Ye will try him wi' ten? I tried him wi' a hundred and he wasn't satisfied."

A World Lighted by the Sun of Sincerity

An Editorial by James Wallen

A great store is a world in itself. Its cosmopolitan interests take in all the activities of the globe.

The Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose store is such a world—with a difference which amounts to an improvement. It is a sphere of quality, refinement and of undisputed merit.

It would be of no avail for a store to try for completeness and take in all the errors and defects of the world of merchandising.

As you settle into the depths of your easy chair, visualize our planet earth with its dream-like wealth and beauty and wonder why there is so much of dross in the world of commerce.

A great business house here and there pledges itself to quality. Many more bow before the Mogul of price inducement, forgetting that the cost of a thing may be great, even when the price is low.

Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose are trying with might and main to make their store represent the kind of a world in which we would all like to live—a world of honest charm.

The false face of a seeming bargain fails completely to allure you in the presence of an honest value as frank as the countenance of a child, as fair as the features of a favorite daughter. Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose believe that in their world of merchandising there is room only for that which is sound, sensible and sincere.

A Cordial Invitation To All Atlanta and Her Guests for Opera Week

To Visit Our

World of Beautiful Merchandise

From every land where the good, the useful, and the beautiful originate, choice products have been pouring in to our store. Our World of Beautiful Merchandise for the Spring and Summer season is quite complete.

Whether an exquisite gown for opera wear or a simple gingham apron, a rare bit of porcelain or a kettle for the kitchen—whatever is wanted, the chances are it is here, each of its own kind, the best. Never a "false face of a seeming bargain," but always a quality product, "an honest value," priced as a rule, as low as quality may be bought.

The purpose for which we strive is to offer only that merchandise, which for personal use, will afford genuine pleasure, or to make of the home a place of real and abiding charm.

LITTLE DOSES OF COMMON SENSE

In God we trust—
Indeed we must—
When food's exposed,
To drifting dust.

If you want a good doctor plant a good garden.

For pain, palliation is merely procrastination.

From high living comes hard lives and high blood pressure.

Oh, there's no unsightly garbage
And our alley's apt and span,
For we've carried off the rubbish
And every bloomin' can.

And so at last we've lived to see
The passing of the catnip tea.

The fly that lights upon the table
Off the fly that's from the stable.

Ring in the ears doesn't always Mean that nature is calling
The wrong number, she may be trying
To tell you that you are eating too much
And that your blood pressure is rising.

And we rest beneath some floral Wreath all on account of our Abscessed teeth.

And the skeletons that stir to us—
They don't do a thing to us.
So we swallow our capsules and pills;
But I've always insisted
That our lozies be twisted
When we doctor these fevers and chills.

Better to have the doctor check us
Up than to have the undertaker check us out.

While the odor of asseofetida is highly obnoxious it is sufficiently so to deter an energetic germ.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Cleaning the Refrigerator.
Washing soda is best when cleaning the refrigerator. Never use soap. But plenty of clean tepid water in which a lump of soda has been dissolved will do the trick beautifully.

The Child's Diet.
It is a bad idea to ask the child what he wants to eat at each meal. Fix his plate daintily with the things he should eat upon it before him. If he never hears about preferences he will probably make very few of his own—and he won't be undernourished.

Uses of Bran.
Bran water will wash but not fade colored goods.
Painted and varnished woodwork cleans beautifully with bran.
Bran used instead of soap will whiten and soften the hands wonderfully.
Bran water used as a shampoo will give a beautiful natural gloss to the hair.

To make bran water, place a small bag of bran in a bowl and cover with boiling water.

ADDING KERNELS TO THE COB

Having learned something of how to do it, the amateur who seemed to be doing nothing but asking questions, after several days of Mr. Burbank's experiments with corn, both useful and ornamental.

Mr. Burbank's first experiments with corn were in 1870 and 1872, when he began to grow corn.

When the roots were from 2 to 6 or 8 inches long and the tips an inch high, the corn was planted in drills, by dropping it without regard to the position of the roots.

"On raising corn for the market I realized the value of an early variety from a commercial point of view."

Mr. Burbank devised a method of forcing corn which I continued profitably for several years. The method was simple. The corn was planted in rows, and the rows were spaced so that the corn could be planted in rows, and the rows were spaced so that the corn could be planted in rows.

"The corn was planted in leaf mold, was kept in the right condition of heat and moisture and soon sprouted. When the roots were from 2 to 6 or 8 inches long and the tips an inch high, the corn was planted in drills, by dropping it without regard to the position of the roots."

"On their heads or their heels? And upside down? Did they grow just the same?"

"Just the same. They were covered with a half-inch layer of loose soil, and the next day some of them had already sprouted through the soil. The ears of this forced corn ripened a full week earlier than those of the ordinary variety."

"The growth of the corn was also stimulated by bone meal or by some fertilizer containing nitrogen and phosphates cultivated into the soil about the roots."

"This was of course a result of selection and special sprouting, but in the case of the 'Burbank' corn and the Rainbow corn, the same principle of selection was pursued."

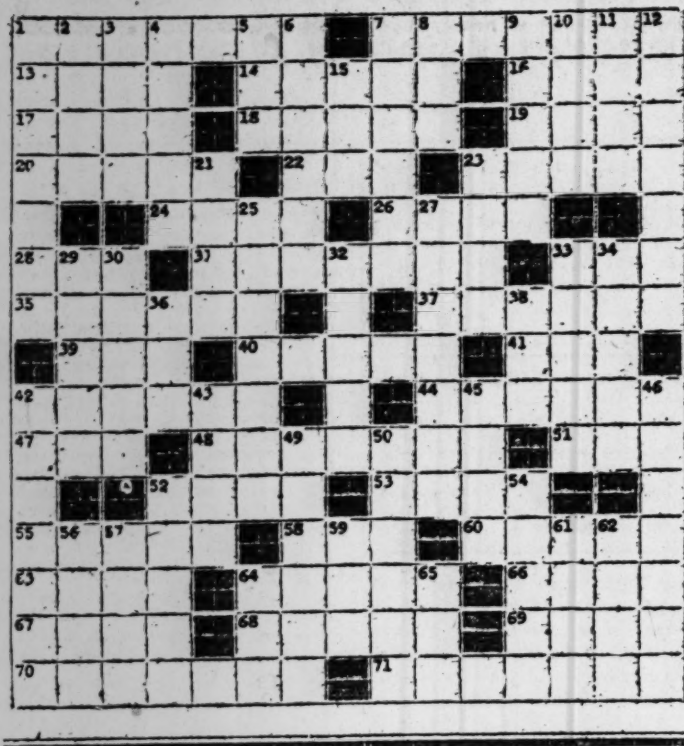

"The Rainbow corn was the result of careful selection carried through many generations and with many plants. The parent form was itself a variation from the common green-leaved dwarf corn, a Japanese variety known as Zea mays variegata."

"The parent form was brought from Germany in 1808, and was known as Japanese maine corn, but among the plants raised the first season were two stalks that were really striped in new colors, the other plants having green and white leaves like the ancestors. The first satisfactory plant which appeared after rejecting many thousands of inferior ones, was increased by cuttings or suckers, a new process with corn, and from these other cuttings were taken, and were all, after root-planting with the original plant."

"Corn must be planted close together in companies as it is reproduced by the pollen from the tassels reaching the silken threads leading to each kernel of corn in the ear, and the winds of heaven are called into play in this process. Hence the great need of planting only good varieties together in companies as it is reproduced by the pollen from the tassels reaching the silken threads leading to each kernel of corn in the ear, and the winds of heaven are called into play in this process. ## The Lost World

BY SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

The cliffs upon the further side had lost their ruddy tint, being chocolate-brown in color; the vegetation was more scattered along the top of them, and they had sunk to three or four hundred feet in height, but in no place did we find any point where they could be ascended. If anything, they were more impossible than at the first point where we had met them. Their absolute steepness is indicated in the photograph which I took over the stony desert.

"Surely," said I, as we discussed the situation, "the rain must find its way down somehow. There are bound to be water-channels in the rocks."

"Our young friend has glimpses of lucidity," said Professor Challenger, patting me upon the shoulder. "The rain must go somewhere," I repeated.

"He keeps a firm grip upon actuality. The only drawback is that we have conclusively proved by ocular demonstration that there are no water channels down the rocks."

"Where, then, does it go?" I persisted.

"I think it may be fairly assumed that if it does not come outwards it must run inwards."

"Then there is a lake in the center."

"So I should suppose."

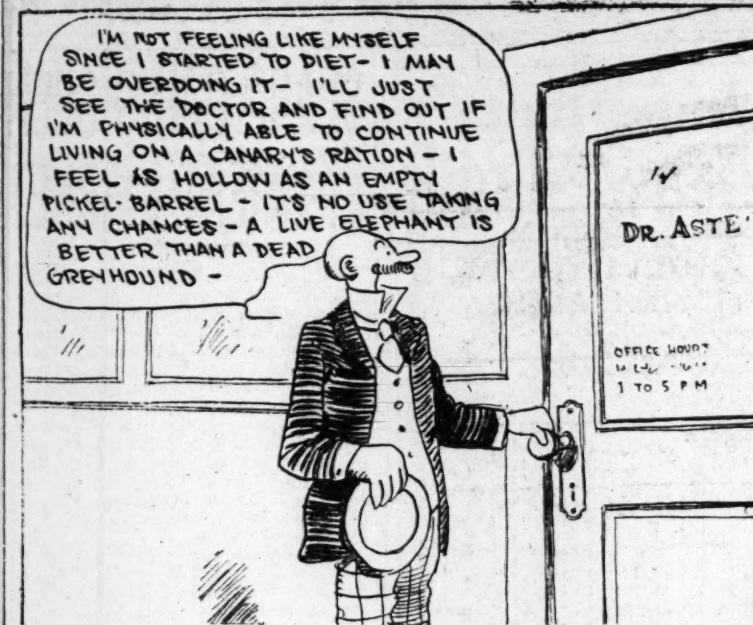

"It is more than likely that the lake may be an old crater," said Summerlee. "The whole formation is, of course, highly volcanic. But, however that may be, I should expect to find the surface of the plateau sloping inwards with a considerable sheet of water in the center, which may drain off by some subterranean channel, into the marshes of the Jaraacaca swamp."

"Or evaporation might preserve an equilibrium," remarked Challenger, and the two learned men wandered off into one of their usual scientific arguments, which were as incomprehensible as Chinese to the layman.

On the sixth day we completed our first circuit of the cliffs, and found ourselves back at the first camp, beside the isolated pinnacle of rock. We were a disconsolate party, for nothing could have been more minute than our investigation, and it was absolutely certain that there was no single point where the most active human being could possibly hope to scale the cliff. The place which Maple White's chalk-marks had indicated as his own means of access was now entirely impassable.

What are we to do now? Our stores of provisions, supplemented by our guns, were holding out well, but the day must come when they would need replenishment. In a couple of months the rains might be expected, and we should be washed out of our camp. The rock was harder than marble, and any attempt at cutting a path for so great a height was more than our time or resources would admit. No wonder that we looked gloomily at each other that night, and brought out blankets with hardly a word exchanged. I remember that as I dropped off to sleep my last recollection was that Challenger was snoring like a monstrous bull-dog, by the fire, his huge head in his hands, sunk apparently in the deepest thought, and entirely oblivious to the good-night which I wished him.

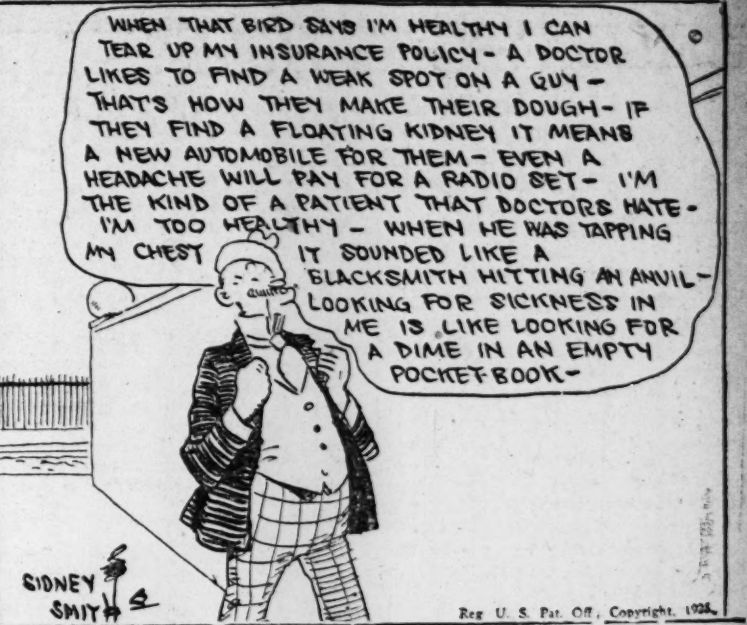

But it was a very different Challenger who greeted us in the morning—a Challenger with contentment and self-congratulation shining from his whole person. He faced us as we he: "vestigia nulla retrosum. Never look rearwards, but always to our glorious goal." The level of the plateau, when I turned, was exactly that on which we stood, and the green bank of bushes, with occasional trees, was so near that it was difficult to realize how inaccessible it remained. At a rough guess the gulf was 40 feet across, but, so far as I could see, it might as well have been 40 miles. The wall was absolutely precipitous, as was that which faced me. "This is indeed curious," said the creaking voice of Professor Summerlee. I turned, and found that he was examining with great interest the tree to which I clung. That smooth bark and those small, ribbed leaves seemed familiar to my eyes. "Why," I cried, "it's a beech!" "Exactly," said Summerlee. "A fellow-countryman in a far land."

and sinews," said he. "I think he will be the most useful at this task. I must beg, however, that you will kindly refrain from thinking for yourself, and that you will do exactly what you are told." Under his direction I cut such gashes in the side of the tree as would insure that it should fall as we desired. It already had a strong natural tilt in the direction of the plateau, so that the matter was not difficult. Finally, I set to work in earnest upon the trunk, taking turn and turn with Sir John. In a little over an hour there was a loud crack, the tree swayed forward, and for one terrible second we all thought it was over. It balanced itself, however, a few inches from the edge, and there was our bridge to the unknown.

into it for want of a little common sense and patience isn't my notion of management." The remonstrance was too reasonable to be disregarded. Challenger tossed his head and shrugged his heavy shoulders. "Well, sir, what do you propose?" "For all I know there may be a tribe of cannibals waiting for lunch time among those very bushes," said Lord John, looking across the bridge. "It's better to learn wisdom before you get into a cakin' pot; so we will content ourselves with hoping that there is no trouble waiting for us, and at the same time we will act as if there were. Malone and I will go down again, therefore, and we will fetch up the four rifles, together with Gomez and the other. One man can then go across and the rest will cover him with guns, until he sees that it is safe for the whole crowd to come along." (To be Continued.)

New York, April 20.—Stock prices opened irregular and then turned reactionary in today's market following the decline in some of the motor shares and specialties, and a renewal of selling pressure against the St. Paul and Chicago and Alton issues, which broke to new low prices. Trading was in moderate volume, the day's sales running over one million shares.

Maxwell Motors B broke from 86 1/2 to 81 when a large block of stock was pressed for sale soon after the opening, rallying later to 82 1/2 and 4-1/8 points below Saturday's close. Maxwell A. touched a new peak price of 100 1/2 and then sagged to 99 1/2 for a net gain. Sales on the day. Mack Trucks closed 2-3/4 points lower at 148 1/2 after selling as high as 152. High Lights in Cotton Market

BY THEO. H. PRICE,
Editor Commerce and Finance.

New York, April 20.—The lack of rain in Texas and a few days of prematurely hot weather there have been at last reflected in the cotton market. With the new crop months in the lead it is substantially higher as the week closes and from now until the new crop commences to move it is likely to be a weather market. A further advance is probable if the drought continues and a decline is just as probable if there are good rains over any substantial portion of the southwestern cotton territory.

There are many who maintain that it is too late for rain to do any good. They may be right but from now on speculative sentiment rather than fact will be the dominating factor and the enthusiasm of those who are buying futures is almost certain to be damped by a heavy rainfall.

Erratic and sensational fluctuations are therefore to be expected and the time-honored policy of buying on dips and selling on bulges would seem to be the best course for traders to follow.

But it is not so easy to decide what the cotton manufacturers should do. The consumption of lint cotton in the United States during month, about 1,640,000 bales. Adding to the latter item the cotton contracted for but not shipped or received it is reasonable to assume that our American manufacturers have secured all the cotton they will spin up by the 31st of July.

The same thing is probably true of the foreign mills, for exports up to date are in excess of 7,250,000 bales, which is more than the foreign consumption as indicated by the figures of the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners.

The accumulation of a reserve stock or carry-over is therefore the problem that now confronts the wool's textile industry. It is a problem concerning which it is dangerous to generalize and as a generalization all that can be said is that 25 cents is coming to be regarded as the mean of cotton's value under present conditions.

People do things openly now that would have made good whispering in the old days.—Milwaukee Journal.

This is the view it seemed to prevail among the cotton manufacturers gathered in Washington and New Orleans earlier in the month and it is coming to be accepted in the dry goods trade. Producers will, of course, expect to get more for the next crop is a failure, but until it can be determined whether the admitted increase in acreage is offset by a corresponding increase in drought who need cotton in their business will probably be wise in buying, it when they can get four pounds or more for a dollar.

Meanwhile, sight ought not be lost of the fact that we will shortly enter the zone in which a storm or a hurricane is expected every few weeks as a result of the issuance of the fortnightly government reports; for, despite the resolutions of protest passed at the New Orleans meeting of the cotton manufacturers, it is understood that they are to be continued until congress repeals the bill in pursuance of which they are being issued.

used. The initial report will be published on the 2nd of June. It will give the condition of the crop as of May 25. The next will be a report on the acreage. It will be published on July 1. Then, if the weather is favorable, we shall have another condition report and thereafter one every fortnight until December 8.

Perhaps this trial will become a permanent feature of these frequent reports, but if the history of the past is any guide to the future business will be more or less paralyzed for several days after each of these reports of these unnecessary forecasts. It is a pity they cannot be stopped.

New York, April 20.—Reactionary

tendencies were conspicuous in today's bond trading, although they failed to check completely the upward movement of standard railroad and industrial issues gave the market a firm under-tone, although surface dealings were ruffled by selling of the western rail and some of the oil liens.

Selling pressure was concentrated mainly against the receivership rails—

Chicago &amp; Alton and St. Paul. Following breaks in the stocks of these companies, the bond issues also slumped badly, losing 1 to 2 points. It was that a federal investigation of the St.

Paul receivership was threatened and posed southwestern rail mergers had been requested contributed to the weakness of these bonds.

Other heavy spots in the rail group were Pennsylvania general 4 1/2 and Norfolk &amp; Western convertible 6 1/2.

These issues were partially counteracted by the moderate rally in

Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville

and Reading &amp; Northern Pacific 4 1/2.

Pan-American and Sinclair oil

bonds again turned reactionary, but were supported by the firm tone of States and foreign government obligations were irregular, moving with market limits.

Negatives were being virtually completed for the sale of New York

bankers of a $3,000,000 bond issue for the Tyrol Hydro-Electric Power

state of Tyrol and the city of Innsbruck.

GARY SEES LITTLE HOPE

FOR INCREASED DIVIDENDS

ON U. S. STEEL ISSUES

Hoboken, N. J., April 20.—E. H.

Gary, chairman of the United States

Steel corporation, held out little hope of increased dividends or special dividends to stockholders in addressing his annual meeting here today.

The "best interest of the stockholders," said Mr. Gary in response to a question as to the possibility of increasing dividends, was to provide some of the $517,000,000 surplus with the shareholders.

The corporation also showed that it was a conservative manager of the funds which it is best calculated to save and distribute, whatever financial emergency may arise.

"We have an undivided surplus of $517,000,000. From this amount there has been invested in new properties amounting to $250,000,000, leaving a balance of $267,000,000, leaving a balance of net working assets of $267,000,000."

George J. Baker was listed among the largest holders of United States

Steel shares with 58,500 shares of common stock and 500 preferred shares.

President Coolidge was listed as the holder of 50 shares of common stock. The records of shares of common stock of United States Steel are maintained by the corporation.

George J. Baker, Jr., held only shares of common stock; J. P. Morgan, chairman of the corporation, and 601 shares of preferred; James

H. H. Gary, president of the corporation,

523 shares of common and

529 shares of preferred; and dabury, general counsel for the company, 10,000 shares of common and 502 shares of preferred.

Waterman, 126,653 shares of common and 502 shares of preferred.

At the meeting there were represented common stock and 1,452,491 shares of preferred.

KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN

MAY BUY LOUISIANA CO.

New York, April 20.—Officials of the Kansas City Southern Railroad company admitted today the negotiations were under way for the purchases of the Louisiana Railway

Navigation company. The road will be annexed to the Kansas City Southern system if and when a satisfactory agreement regarding terms is reached.

E. F. Loree, chairman of the Kansas City Southern, J. G. Hand, vice president, and other officials of the road, who recently inspected the Louisiana railway properties, found that they would make a valuable addition to the Kansas City Southern lines. Representatives of the Kansas City Southern have been in New Orleans negotiating for the acquisition of the smaller road.

Having recently obtained a substantial interest in the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, the Kansas City

Southern interests were expected to take the lead in a new southwestern consolidation.

Reports that the Union Pacific would play a dominant part in the grouping of these roads could not be confirmed.

And then she got married!

FIVE years as a stenographer—and then she met the right man. Happy?—Of course—who wouldn't be with a fine husband and a cozy home?

But sometimes her fingers itched to dart over the keys in the old way. She wondered if she had lost all her speed—if she could again earn her living, should anything happen to Jim.

That's where Corona Four fits into a happy family, particularly when the wife has been a business woman. Having the same standard and keyboard she has been used to, it enables the ex-typist to retain the skill she worked so hard to acquire.

The price of Corona Four is $60 cash. Easy terms arranged if desired. Call or phone for a demonstration.
